'BOBBERS' FORM BATTLE LINES WITH SOVIETS

La Follette "Blocs" Are the Units.

BY PARKE BROWN.

What Senator La Follette's critics call the "soviet idea" in his campaign methods was made the framework for his Illinois state organization yesterday.

"Groups" or "blocs" instead of geographical divisions are to be the units of the organization. All the old parties have had state committees consisting of representatives of the congressional districts of the state. But the La Follette committee consists of the railroad labor "group," the miners "group," the German-American "group," the Irish "group," the Scandinavian "group," and the other "blocs" which have rallied to his standard.

Committee men to Direct.

And the member of the executive committee representing a group will direct the activities of that group throughout the state. He will be attached directly to state headquarters and will have his own district and county lieutenants.

This was the single surprise of the state convention of the "Illinois committee for progressive political action," which opened six hours at the Auditorium hotel on the job of reorganizing. The "Coke county" conference, which was held last Thursday and provided for the creation of a county central committee consisting of ward and precinct level committees such as the old parties have.

But the report of the organization committee at the state meeting provided that the state committee shall consist of three representatives from each of the score and more of groups already identified with the "conference" or scheduled for organization. And the executive committee is to consist of one representative of each of these groups. This is intended to be the active managerial body.

Then Unity Prevails.

This plan brought no expressions of opposition from the delegates, about 300 of whom, a majority from labor organizations, were formally recognized by the convention. About 200 others attended the meeting, and the program was another miniature of the La Follette Cleveland convention, unanimity marking the endorsement of the La Follette-Wheeler ticket and the endorsement of the Cleveland platform.

In connection with the platform the convention adopted a resolution trying another restraining string on potential candidates who may desire to tie up to the La Follette movement. This resolution "committed" to the state and national executive committees the question of the nomination or endorsement of such congressional, state, or local candidates "as they may deem upon full consideration best promotive of the progressive cause and the candidacy of Senators La Follette and Wheeler."

MacDowan Sounds Keynote.

News interest in the oratory of the day centered about the keynote address of Charles J. MacDowan, who was both temporary and permanent chairman. After reviewing briefly some of the main issues, he assailed the old party tickets.

"The Republican party," he said, "has presented to the electorate as its chief standard bearer the present incumbent of the White House, Calvin Coolidge, who goes before the people with a negative record. He has been urged by his advisers to make a campaign on the platform of being a vetoing President. We hope this unwise counsel will prevail.

Dawes Nomination "a Plot."

"Next on the same ticket is the sulphurous gentleman, Mr. Dawes, whose election by the Republican convention was not an act of fate, as many would have us believe, but was a carefully laid plan of the group of international financiers interested in the questionable schemes to bring about the enslavement of western Europe and the subsequent enslavement of the United States.

"On the Democratic ticket Morgan's chief lawyer, Mr. John W. Davis, has climbed astride the patient donkey and Charles W. Bryan is thrown in to give the ticket a touch of respectability; and the great commoner, the fool and accepted leader of the people's battles for many years past, has accepted the inducement and will remain regular when the greatest battle in modern history is being waged in the United States."

LAYING PLANS TO HARNESS U. S. WATER GIANTS

Centralized Plants Advocated.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

Washington, D. C., July 27.—[Special.]—Establishment of large centralized electric plants at strategic points, development of large hydroelectric projects and extension of interconnection among the different systems are advocated in a report made public today by the engineering subcommittee of the northeast super-power committee, headed by Secretary of Commerce Hoover.

Effect of these recommendations on the industrial development of the northeastern states from Maine to West Virginia and Maryland, according to the committee, will be a saving of over 50,000,000 tons of coal annually, production of power at less cost, security of power supplies against interruption, with its losses through disturbed production of power, employment, larger reserves of power, through which other industrial development need not lag, electrification of transportation with an increase in its efficiency, and extension of power uses to the farm.

Outgrowth of Conference.

The report is an outgrowth of a conference held in New York last October between Secretary Hoover and the chairmen of the state utility commissions of the eleven northeastern states.

The engineering subcommittee report, made public today, will be considered at a meeting of the full committee next fall.

The survey covers the states of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, and the District of Columbia. The report has been included in the report some reference to Ohio, Virginia, and West Virginia, since under certain circumstances power in these regions will be contributed.

Natural Power Areas.

The whole region comprises one of several power areas into which the United States naturally divides itself, according to the engineers. Forty per cent of the country's population, consuming 60 per cent of the nation's electrical power, production and operating 60 per cent of the primary power resources, is concentrated in this particular area. The use of electrical power there has been increasing at the rate of 10 per cent per annum, and in the committee's opinion the demand will reach 30,000,000 kilowatt hours in 1939.

Possibilities of Development.

At present water has developed about 38 per cent of the total water power ultimately available in this area. But practical development of water power will probably be such that not over 25 per cent of the total power demand in any year can be met from this source. Principal dependence, therefore, must be placed upon generation of power from coal.

"There are in this area nearly 300 utility companies engaged in power production and distribution, many under common ownership. Of these about 45 per cent are technically interconnected, but about only 8 per cent of the interconnections have capacity large enough for effective interchange of power. Great economies in cost of production can be secured from the early effective interconnection of these utility systems, in some cases involving larger and systematic high voltage transmission."

Great Plants Desirable.

The report goes on to point out that the economic generation and distribution of power vitally requires that it be produced in large plants. Because great plants of this character require immense quantities of water for condensing purposes, their location will be controlled by considerations of water supply. The engineers have reached the conclusion that the location of such plants will accordingly be restricted to the seaboard, the great lakes, the Ohio river and its tributaries, and the Susquehanna river. Turning to a discussion of water power, the engineers declare that the large demand affords an immediate market for the cheaper water power from the larger projects and renders their development both urgent and necessary.

WIFE SPOTS BOLD MAN SHE THINKS GYPSED SPOUSE

There he goes. That's the man who robbed you!

It was Mrs. Nathan Gorbain, 6248 Champlain avenue, who thus addressed her husband and grabbed his arm as they were passing Orchestra hall yesterday.

And husband certainly looked. Sure enough, he saw Armando Carlos Scalzo, monocular, spatted and otherwise made up as slick as a villain in a screen society drama. Action was quick. First a policeman, then the South Clark street station and explanations.

It seems Scalzo is from Brazil. Gorbain says Scalzo approached him some time ago with a glowing real estate proposition. He offered Gorbain a house at 6214 Rhodes avenue at a price which he said would enable Gorbain to make a lot of money.

Gorbain talked the matter over with his wife, and as the property appeared to be a bargain, he withdrew $1,000 from his bank to close the deal.

But instead of a deed and a bill of sale, Scalzo, according to Gorbain, accompanied by a friend, showed two revolvers and demanded the money.

Warning him to keep quiet, they left. So that's why, Gorbain says, his wife shouted "There he goes."

AUTO BACKS OVER CLIFF; ESCAPES DEATH

El Paso, Tex., July 27.—R. P. Mosson of this city miraculously escaped death today when his automobile went over a 500 foot cliff between Alamogordo and Cloud Croft, N. M. He is in Alamogordo hospital suffering minor bruises and a nervous shock, but his condition is not serious.

Mr. Mosson, with T. H. Pritchard, were en route to Cloud Croft. Their machine stopped on the mountain side, and Pritchard got out to crank it. The gears were in reverse, and when the engine started the car shot backwards over the cliff.

Eyewitnesses said Mosson fell from the car when it was midway down the mountain. The car was demolished.

Seek Cicero Beer-Runner for Slaying

An additional crime of violence was chalked up against Cicero's allegedly fast developing underworld yesterday when Fred Ziegler, a fireman, 42 years old, and residing at 2723 Ridgeland avenue, died at West Suburban hospital as result of bullet wounds received on Saturday night in an affray at the Cicero Inn, 51st and Austin avenues.

Chief Spivoda and his aids were trying to get trace of two women in Ziegler's drinking party and a man member of the party who, it is said, actually fired the fatal shots. All efforts to learn the identity of the women, it is claimed, are so far unsuccessful, as they, along with the man, fled immediately after the shots were fired.

Seek Alleged Beer-Runner.

But Chief Spivoda admitted that he had evidence that the man sought is James Daugherty, notorious as a beer runner, and whose native haunts are said to be along the dubious White Way of North Clark street in the vicinity of Chicago avenue.

Acting upon this tip, the chief early enlisted the aid of the Chicago detective bureau in the search for Daugherty.

Cicero police deny that beer running activities led to the shooting. They insist it was purely a "gentleman's disagreement" in some manner implicating the women of the party which brought on the quarrel.

Quarrel in Saloon.

"I have learned," said Chief Spivoda, "that the quarrel started in a saloon directly across from the Inn. Later the party of four, evidently having drunk considerably, moved over to the Inn. Shortly after this the shots were fired which killed Ziegler, and the two girls, as well as Daugherty, if it was really him, fled."

Ziegler at first insisted he had been wounded in an attempted holdup. Later, when informed his chances for recovery were slight, he is said to have "talked," admitting the trouble began on the dance floor and naming Daugherty as his slayer.

Find Tooth 3 Feet Long and Weighing 400 Pounds

ROME, July 27.—What is believed to be an important discovery of antediluvian remains has been made at Casamari, near Arpino, central Italy, where fossilized teeth of immense size have been brought to light.

Some of these teeth are said to be about nine feet long and about four feet in diameter, and experts who have examined them are of the opinion that they belonged to an antediluvian monster or mammoth. The largest tooth weighs nearly 400 pounds.

Find Skeleton of King Richard III, Battle Victim

LONDON, July 27.—(By the Associated Press.)—A skeleton believed to be that of King Richard III, who was killed at the battle of Bosworth in Leicestershire in 1485, has just been unearthed and handed over to the Leicester museum. King Richard III took part in the final stages of the war of the roses and is credited with participation in the murder of Prince Edward, son of Henry VI, and of Henry himself.

NEW MONOPLANE TEST HURLS FOUR TO THEIR DEATH

Los Angeles, Cal., July 27.—Four persons were almost instantly killed when the new cabin monoplane California crashed to the ground at a commercial air port here late today after beginning an exhibition flight. They were Omond Belcher, designer and builder; his wife, their 8 year old son, and Burgess Creeth, who was piloting the craft.

Mrs. Belcher had but a few moments before the accident christened the monoplane, which was built mainly of woven wood and composition cardboard and embodied other new principles of construction.

The ship took the air nicely and smoothly guided it once around the field. The occupants waved gaily to their friends. The monoplane had attained a speed of about 120 miles an hour when it suddenly crashed to earth.

HUNDREDS DEAD, SAY NEW REPORTS ON INDIAN FLOOD

(Chicago Tribune Special News Service.)

CALCUTTA, July 27.—New reports on the abnormal monsoon which carried flood and disaster in appalling proportions to South India were received here today. Railways are washed out, bridges, submerged and impassable, huge tracts cut off from the outside world, many tea and coffee plantations ruined, and thousands of houses were swept away.

Several hundreds of lives have been lost. It is feared the death toll when communications are reestablished with the marooned areas will prove even heavier than first reports indicate. Several European planters are among the missing and the fate of many others is unknown.

The river Cauvery has risen thirty-four feet and is still rising. It is reported that many isolated villages are facing starvation.

Alienists Use 80,000 Words to Tell Peculiarities of the Boys Who Killed 'Bobby' Franks.

Leopold—the "Slave."

The factors which led to the direct murder in the history of Chicago are ticked by the boyishly abnormal fantasies of Nathan Leopold Jr., revealed yesterday for the first time in the reports of the defense alienists, Dr. Earl M. Bowman of Boston and Dr. H. S. Hubert of Chicago.

Contained in the two reports—some 80,000 words in all, one dealing with Loeb, the other with Leopold—are the psychiatric keys which unlock the strange mental states of the two college students who slew 14 year old Robert Franks.

State to Conclude Today.

State's Attorney Crowe expects to conclude his case today. Tomorrow begins Attorney Clarence Darrow's term of days in court.

The report of the two alienists is the skeleton foundation of the defense which will be presented before Judge Caverly in the effort of Attorneys Darrow and Benjamin Bachrach to save their clients from the noose.

Classed as a "slave" part of one of the most exhaustive examinations of criminals ever made, the report of Drs. Bowman and Hubert covers every possible phase of the mental and physical history of Richard

HERE'S REPORT BY ALIENISTS ON DICK LOEB

Liar and Thief Since His Boyhood, Finding.

Subjoined are excerpts embodying the main features in the history of Richard Loeb, and some of his characteristics, as compiled by defense alienists and as given out by the defense last night:

The following examination of Richard Loeb was made at the request of his family, through his attorneys, Messrs. Clarence S. Darrow, Benjamin C. Bachrach and Walter Bachrach, in order to determine whether or not insanity was a justifiable plea for defense, he being accused of and admitting the murder of Robert Franks, May 21, 1924.

The patient's father, Albert H., was tender to his boys, including Dick. Therefore, Dick and his brothers loved and worshipped their father, and did not want to lose their father's love and respect; the father's wish was law; Dick respected him; he never caught in a lie.

Father Fair and Just.

The father, Albert H. Loeb, is fair and just. He is opposed to the boys' drinking, and often spoke of it; he is not strict, although the boys may have thought he was; he never used corporal punishment. In early childhood he was not a play-fellow with the boys. Mr. Loeb's illness has prevented him from being directly interviewed in relation to the present problem. He has always been somewhat of a worrier, but his wife has been extremely devoted to him.

The mother is a woman with excellent poise; keen, alert, interested. Richard was a weakly child until four and a half years, at which time his tonsils were removed. He increased slightly in strength until at the age of 9, after which he grew strong and hearty. His weight and growth have always been regular.

An Auto Accident.

At 15, while at Charlevoix, Mich., he had an automobile accident and suffered a concussion of the brain.

At the age of 13 he stammered some, especially when with strangers. For the last two or three years he has had tremors of the face which have been increasing and now are easily noticeable when he is emotional.

He has had considerable dental work done, in straightening of the teeth especially, and he still has three baby teeth and an X-ray shows that there are no unerupted teeth imbedded.

The patient has always been somewhat cold blooded. He likes summer better than winter. He has always wanted more blankets on the bed than the average individual and says that he is always tended to wear heavier clothing than his companions.

The outstanding person in his younger days who was not related to him was his governess, Miss Struthers, now Mrs. Bishop.

She had definite ideas of strictness and obedience. She was prompt with her punishments and these punishments were always mild and she never used corporal punishment. He soon developed an affection for her and apparently she loved him. He preferred her company to going with the boys, for example, if they were going to the movies of an evening.

It was in his school days that he was "tricked driving" before a mad, skidded and threw him to the ground.

Lack of Conscience. The patient says that he will tell a lie with no compunction whatever and that he is completely dishonest. He feels that he has been much less popular during the past year. He has contemplated suicide a number of times.

In actual physical combat he is a coward. He has not been in a fight since he was 10 years old.

He was especially afraid of losing his eyes or of injury to his legs, and he was afraid of being beaten up by a gang of boys such as at camp.

He was not particularly afraid of new punishments, as he was afraid of repetition of punishments which he had experienced.

On the other hand, he is quite reckless in regard to personal safety in other ways.

For instance, he will go out in a storm in a small boat when he knows that it is a dangerous thing to do, without feeling the least bit of fear.

He has always been inclined to selfishness. In his quarrels with the family he has always felt that he was right, but with others he has often realized that he was wrong.

He never did anything because he thought it was right. As far back as he can remember his parents' wishes carried little weight with him, excepting that it might seem expedient to accept their wishes.

He has always been fond of athletics and outdoor sports such as tennis, swimming, hockey, skating, and so forth. He has never played football.

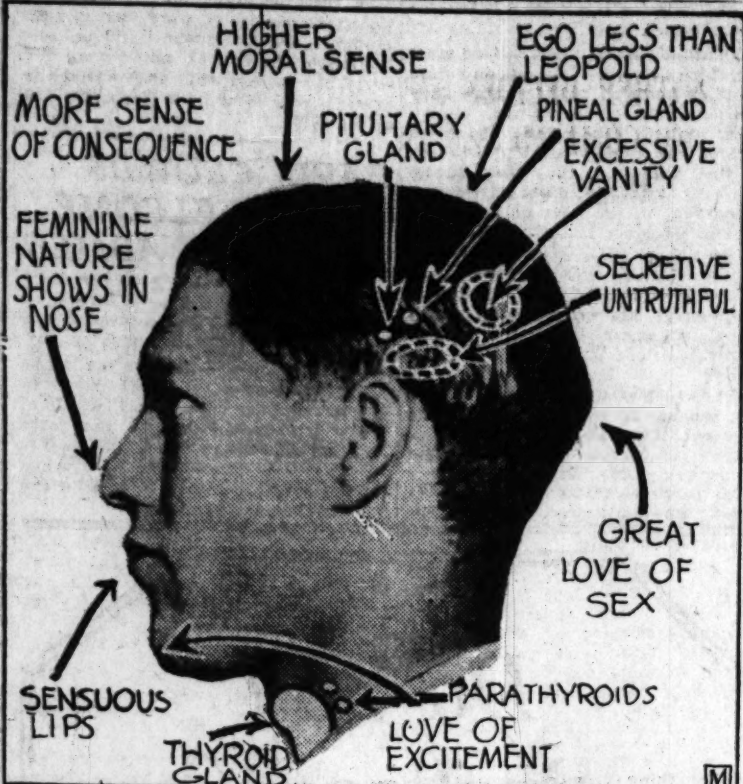

He is always looking forward in a somewhat vague way to marriage and a family of his own. His ideal for a wife has been a woman who was "sweet and pretty" rather than intellectual.

At the present time he has a number of girl friends, but has no serious attachment toward any of them.

CRIMINAL TENDENCIES

Although this man has indulged in many criminalistic reverses and in more or less criminalistic practices, it was all done without any inkling or knowledge on the part of his parents, brothers, governesses or teachers. It seemed necessary, in his reverses, that he be the "master criminal mind" and have a small group, possibly only one associate, who would look up to him. In his practices this has been carried out; therefore, not even his acquaintances were aware of his trend of thought or his actions, unless they were the one or possibly more boys associated with him in these practices. The possible exception to this, which we have not yet ascertained, is that he may have indulged in boastful reveries in talking with the boy Jack Mengel (Weaver).

His Phantasies. There were several phantasies which occurred with great frequency. Perhaps the earliest of these was that he would picture himself in jail. He would imagine that he was being robbed of his clothing, being shoved around and abused. There was a great feeling of self pity with this, but no feeling of fear.

"I was abused, but it was a very pleasant thought. The punishment inflicted on me in jail was pleasant. I enjoyed being 'looked at' through the bars, because I was a famous criminal."

The Master Mind. One particular point connected with all this phantasy was the idea that he was the "master mind" who was so clever at planning crimes that he could escape detection from the greatest detectives of the world.

Thus he would be in truth the "master criminal mind" of the century, and he would look up to him. In his practices this has been carried out; therefore, not even his acquaintances were aware of his trend of thought or his actions, unless they were the one or possibly more boys associated with him in these practices. The possible exception to this, which we have not yet ascertained, is that he may have indulged in boastful reveries in talking with the boy Jack Mengel (Weaver).

SKILLED AS LIAR At no time did he ever experience the slightest feeling of guilt or remorse for lying. His lies were practically always successful, since his governess and family and friends all considered him a very frank and truthful lad, and his appearance was not one of guile.

The patient would also lie in a boastful way, to his friends and acquaintances. For instance, he would tell them what exceptional grades he had made at college, although this was not the case. He boasted of his romantic prowess and his numerous affairs with girls. Recently he has derived a great deal of satisfaction from telling a girl acquaintance that he was a bootlegger, which was not the case. He would also tell her of fictitious dates with other girls.

Once he took his shirt, shot a hole in it, and then put it on and wore it to visit the same girl. He took a revolver with him. He showed her his shirt and told her he had had a fight in a saloon and that was how it had happened.

He is a very skillful liar. Record As Thief. As recently as two years ago one time he was visiting one of his uncles and "shadowed" him home, at that time he wore a mask, and just as his uncle came to his own front door step the patient said to him, "Hold up your hands," but his uncle said, "Run along home, Dick; don't be foolish."

He stole, when 8 or 9, from a boy who lived next door. This boy had a sum of money, probably about $1. The patient found out where he hid it and then stole it and hid it under a roof of a shanty in his own backyard.

About this same time, probably shortly after, he and another boy had a lemonade and candy stand for one day. The patient stayed and watched the stand, while the other boy went to lunch. He took the things home and then stole it and hid it under a roof of a shanty in his own backyard.

When he was 15 years old he discovered that the keys to his mother's Milburn electric car would fit any other car. He and another boy stole a car, at the patient's initiative; they had been drinking; they used the car to travel about, to send in false fire alarms.

When the patient was 14 years old he stole a $100 Liberty bond from his eldest brother's desk and put it in his pocket. The bond was found by his brother at one time while casually going through the patient's desk.

When 18 years old he planned with his close associate the robbing of a was cellar of some friends who lived in Hubbard Woods. These people were moving to Chicago, but at the time were in New York on a visit. There was an interval of several days when the people would be away, although possibly they left.

In November of 1923 the patient planned to return to Ann Arbor to rob his own fraternity house with the assistance of his close associate. The patient had been a member of this fraternity the two previous years and knew the layout of the house and the customs of the fraternity brothers.

They had with them two flashlights, two loaded revolvers, rope and a chain wrapped with tape to knock any one over the head who might interfere.

But they found the door was unlocked and nobody paid any attention to them. They went through the clothes on the second floor as planned and picked up about $74, several watches, many knives, a typewriter, fountain pens, Eversharp pencils, but no stockings. They got nervous hearing noises in the house.

SET SEVERAL FIRES The patient at first omitted any account of setting fires. He did this deliberately, with the feeling that it was for his own self-interest not to reveal anything about it.

When confronted with the fact that he had set a number of fires he did not appear in the least embarrassed and said: "O, didn't I tell about that? It was one of the things I meant to tell; I didn't intend to omit it."

His manner was extremely polite and courteous. He gave the impression of being absolutely frank and straightforward, and his manner was extremely convincing.

The patient then went on to relate that he, with his companion, had planned to set fire to a shack on a vacant lot. Accordingly they drove in their car to within about five blocks of the shack. The patient then parked his car there and got into his companion's car. They then drove over to the shack, poured some gasoline on the floor and walls and set fire to it.

They jumped into his companion's car, drove five blocks to where the patient's car was parked, got out and got into the patient's car and drove back to the scene of the fire, in order that the patient might have the thrill of watching it and talking with the crowd, sneered at their ignorant guesses as to the cause of the fire, offering impossible solutions themselves and getting a great feeling of satisfaction from the fact that he knew the real solution to the mystery and that nobody else did.

He denied being implicated in the so-called gland robbery of Mr. Ream, and he denied being at Geneva in the case of the "ragged stranger" who was found dead with his hands cut off and his face mutilated, and he denied having participated in any other delinquencies, but later referred to four episodes, for which the letters A, B, C, and D were suggested. It was found, however, inadvisable to question him about these.

THE FRANKS CASE In November, 1923, while the patient and his companion (Leopold) were on their way home from robbing the fraternity houses at Ann Arbor they got into a heated argument; each one was disgusted with the other's conduct in the robberies; they raised other personal questions about which they were not harmonious; their friendship threatened to collapse.

This argument was very bitter and lasted for several hours. It was suggested at that time that the friendship should dissolve. However, both gained by this friendship in several ways, and therefore they came to an agreement to perpetuate the friendship under certain restrictions.

The patient wanted an assistant in the carrying out of his plans in the criminal activities. The other party, with his exaggerated idea of his own mental superiority over all the world, and not wanting to be entirely alone, but needing some one who could understand him and who could associate with him as requested.

He agreed that the patient could call on the other for assistance a certain number of times, in the carrying out of time, and the other could call on the patient for companionship. This relationship was to last until the summer of 1924. The patient's companion agreed to be absolutely under any orders that the patient might give, except ridiculous commands and things that would cause trouble or

STEALING AUTOMOBILES. When he was 15 years old he discovered that the keys to his mother's Milburn electric car would fit any other car. He and another boy stole a car, at the patient's initiative; they had been drinking; they used the car to travel about, to send in false fire alarms.

FRENCH RESENT BRITISH DISPLAY OF GREAT FLEET

Paris Grows More Cool
Toward Dawes Plan.

BY HENRY WALES.

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
PARIS, July 27.—The spectacle which the Socialist prime minister of England offered the radical premier of France yesterday in the mammoth naval review at Spithead draws a sharp and sarcastic comment from the entire political press here today. Nearly every newspaper expresses the view that the British navy is England's "guarantee of peace," while the French army is a "menace of war."

The nationalist organs recall the rôle of the British navy during the war, and although crediting it with holding Germany's fleet at bay, it declares Great Britain and the world would have been at peace if the French navy had not stood from 1914 to 1918 almost unopposed.

The Journal des Debats in a fiery leading editorial suggests that Premier Herriot invite Prime Minister MacDonald to France to review "the greatest army in the world" as a complement to the review of the world's greatest fleet.

See New Anglo-German Rivalry.
Observers are unable to escape the conclusion that Mr. MacDonald made an unfortunate gesture in exhibiting the British fleet to M. Herriot, as in the present state of French opinion such a parade offends many sensitive feelings.

Coolness towards the Dawes report is growing more marked daily, and although technically not related to the problem of security, any useless irritation to the French feelings on French security sends a new chill over the attitude to the Dawes report.

The Temps presents figures to show the Dawes plan will revive Germany as a commercial dominator of Europe, producing Anglo-German rivalry which precipitated the last war.

Herriot Stays in London.
M. Israel, general secretary for Quai d'Orsay, returned to Paris this afternoon after a flying trip to London to consult M. Herriot, and announced that the French premier had decided not to return to Paris for the reopening of parliament Tuesday.

M. Israel called a meeting of several ministers and presidents of parliamentary committees to arrange for the conduct of affairs in the premier's absence. It was decided to ask parliament to pass all the legislation marked urgent without waiting for M. Herriot's return.

BANKERS' BLAME FRENCH

BY JOHN STEELE.

Gives Her Notice

ELIZABETH HINES.

Boston, Mass., July 27.—[Special.]—Elizabeth Hines, star of "Marjorie," formally notified the management that she would withdraw from the production in two weeks. Although Miss Hines gave no reason for her action, it is significant that her resignation closely follows that of Roy Royston, her leading man and stage lover, who quit, following a controversy over his salary.

The national conference resumes its work. The plenary conference will probably decide to summon the Germans at once, regardless of whether the negotiations with the bankers are concluded or not.

The American viewpoint is going to be put forth plainly at the meeting of the first committee, and it will be made clear that the French efforts are to blame for the deadlock on the American bankers' demands and that the trouble lies far more in the intransigent attitude of Paris than London. It is the view of both the British and the Americans that the time has come to put an end to the discussion about details and have the Germans here at once. The judicial committee will report that it is quite necessary to invite the Germans to discuss a new protocol, as the Dawes report will impose duties and burdens on them outside of the Versailles treaty.

Object to False Position.
On the second issue, THE TRIBUNE learns the American bankers and diplomats are both extremely irritated over the false position in which they have been placed. As a matter of fact, Montagu Norman of the Bank of England has been far stiffer in his rejection of the proposed security for a $200,000,000 loan than the Americans, and he has been backed to the limit by Philip Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer. The Americans intend to make it plain that their only interest lies in protecting the interests of prospective American investors.

Mr. MacDonald today addressed a letter to the other four members of the big five informing them that in his opinion, although a full allied agreement had not been reached, the Germans must be invited at once and that the question of the economic evacuation of the Ruhr must be taken up at the same time as the military evacuation. He, therefore, suggests that these two questions form part of the agenda for tomorrow's meeting.

It is reported here tonight that Premier Herriot has finally decided to ignore the threats of the Poincare opposition in Paris and will agree and that on such main issues as measures for restoring the financial and economic unity of Germany—in other words, economic evacuation of the Ruhr—the German delegates should meet the allies on an equal footing. It is also stated that he is now willing to discuss an early military evacuation of the Ruhr.

The decision to meet the Germans on an equal footing is largely the result of meetings between M. Herriot, M. Clementel, Secretary of State Hughes, and Secretary of the Treasury Andrew Mellon over the week end.

New Reds Pick on U. S.
MOORE, July 27.—[By the Associated Press.]—In the course of a long, severely critical and flamboyant pronouncement touching on the anniversary of the outbreak of the world war and on the present allied conference in London, the executive committee of the communist internationale says all the countries represented at the conference expect salvation through the intervention of the United States.

"But," the statement adds, "the United States itself is beset with an agrarian crisis, 2,000,000 farmers throwing away their plots of ground, and the shadow of economic catastrophe is knocking at its door."

America's international market is being curtailed more and more. Ruined and exhausted Europe cannot absorb America's goods, while in South America, the United States is finding an increasingly narrow scope for its capital. Mr. Morgan is dictating to the United States and in the name of the United States, Sen. Dawes and Secretary Hughes are dictating to Europe.

Predicts Financial Dictatorship.
"One of the first results of a democratic pacifist era will be the coming of a dictatorship of American capital, which aims to transform Europe into a vassal colony."

"When the war in the fields began to slacken, American tanks and deadly explosives came to the relief of the European imperialist robbers. After four years of fruitless wrangling on the reparations problem, the United States, the most terrible and avaricious participant in the war, enters the European arena ready with its European allies to strangle the German proletariat and transform Germany into an international colony for the robbers of all countries."

"The results of the present London conference will bring to the German workers a twelve hour day, dismissal of 50 per cent of the railway workers, curtailment of the state employees, imposition of heavy taxes, increased customs and railroad tariffs and high prices. German workers will be converted into slaves of democracy and coolies of pacifism."

Declaring the policy of England is not yet defined, the statement continues: "England can neither live in peace with France nor separate itself from France because neither country has yet completed its armaments, but principally because the United States has not yet decided which of the two imperialist powers it is going to support."

The executive committee urges the proletariat and the toilers of the world not to allow a repetition of the world war and concludes its manifesto: "Hands off the German proletariat! Down with imperialist slavery in the guise of pacifism! Down with the dictatorship of Morgan and American capital! Down with the Versailles treaty and the second internationale, and forward toward the proletarian revolution!"

$15,000,000 MAY BE SPENT TO TELL VOTERS TO VOTE

Two Records Expected in This Campaign.

BY DONALD EWING.
Washington, D. C., July 27.—The presidential election this year is expected to set two records—one for the amount of money spent and the other for the number of voters cast. In 1920 more voters stayed at home than went to the polls. Each campaign director thinks his candidate will benefit most by getting the stay-at-homers to the polls.

In accomplishing this task, the other record is expected to come automatically. Each party is preparing to go the limit in expenses and the total is expected to pass the $15,000,000 mark. No party has as yet made a budget, but indications are that the La Follette venture will cost between $5,000,000 and $10,000,000, and that the remainder of the $15,000,000 will be about equally divided between Democrats and Republicans.

New Expense Is Radio.
Much of this will go to railroads and radio concerns. Some estimate that $1,000,000 will be spent for broadcasting. On the La Follette side little is known as yet as to how much money can be raised. Some of his aides frankly hope to get $5,000,000. Others desire such a sum for a "poor man's candidate." All agree, however, that they will not refuse any contributions.

Railroads will get a good share of the La Follette fund. Recently in a conference of the lieutenants one of them remarked that "it will cost $250,000 to send Wheeler on the proper kind of a swing around the country."

The vice presidential candidate expects to visit nearly every state, but whether he will travel by private train, private car, or upper berth is not settled. Expenses for his meetings will be borne largely by local organizations.

Bob to Broadcast Heavily.
Senator La Follette will use the radio heavily. Tentative offers from the radio concerns run as high as $10,000 for each broadcasting, depending on the number of stations hooked together.

It is to cut this expense that La Follette may go to Madison later. The radio cost there will be cheaper than in Washington, due to better facilities at Chicago.

Then the candidates will be plastered over the country on posters, banners, buttons, etc. The La Follette camp in distributing thousands of pamphlets, special editions of labor papers, and copies of past speeches of their candidate.

Plans for raising the La Follette money are not complete. The unions are being asked to contribute and each contributor will receive a certificate and a La Follette button. The senator wants as many small contributions as possible, figuring that 1,000 $1 contributions means 1,000 votes, where one $1,000 contribution means only one vote.

La Follette's manager, thinks that thousands of voters have been staying away from the polls because they couldn't stand for either major party candidate. He thinks they will come out and vote for him. He left tonight for Chicago.

William M. Butler, the Coolidge manager, thinks that the Republican voters stayed at home in 1920 because they were sure Harding would win. He believes that in the northwest states Coolidge has a majority of the voters—if they will go to the polls. So he is striving to get the conservatives out, feeling that in the past only radicals voted in those sections.

Clem Shaver believes that the stay-at-homes in 1920 were largely Democrats who figured Cox had no chance. If he can get the money to finance a campaign that will wake them up and bring them out Davis will win, he thinks.

And President Coolidge urges a big vote, because he wants the election to "represent the will of the nation."

Clubs and leagues to get the voters out are being organized in all sections by all parties. Pamphlets are being mailed, appeals posted, and calls issued.

In 1896, they point out, 80 per cent of the eligible voters went to the polls. In 1900, only 73 per cent voted; in 1904, 66 per cent; in 1912, 63 per cent; and in 1920 less than 60 per cent.

In 1920 for every 100 votes cast in Pennsylvania there were 133 stay-at-homes. Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, and Michigan showed 45 not voting for every 100 voting, while in the east the average was 96 at home for every 100 at the polls.

PARIS CROWDS JOIN WELCOME TO U. S. ADMEN
(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
PARIS, July 27.—The reception of 500 American advertising men by the French government and press associations today developed into a big public demonstration. The Americans were cheered by huge crowds in Place de la Concord when they began the day's program, and heavy police service was necessary shortly after 10 o'clock, when the entire group laid a wreath on the tomb of the unknown soldier.

Dallas, Tex., July 27.—Former Gov. James E. Ferguson stands a good chance of being elected governor, office from which Mr. Ferguson moved by impeachment to legislature.

The election of Mrs. Ferguson succeeds, will be the family's plea to the voters from the charges on Ferguson was removed from on which he was held in any office within the state.

Carry Appeal to Voters
He was removed in 1917, ten of the twenty-one charges he was tried by the senate for conviction was 27 to 4, mostly concerned misappropriation of public funds.

The Ferguson family decided the appeal to the decision in the campaign which was primary on Saturday. Mr. Davidson most of the speech Mrs. Ferguson stayed in attend the business in butcher shop. Her main was a signed appeal to and mothers of the state the vindication.

In the primary voting Mrs. ran second to Judge Felix H. Dallas, sponsored by the latest figures available to Robertson, 124,152; Mrs. Ferguson, 94,725, with the other six having votes running from 3,000 and 4,000.

Hope for "Run-Off"
Under the Texas election candidate must have a majority of the votes cast in a primary nomination. In case a not obtained, the two highest enter a "run-off" primary, to decide the nomination.

This would throw the "run-off" test to Mrs. Ferguson and the Ferguson forces are on Robertson showed near his power in Saturday's race as Ferguson, with the votes the seven candidates who the race and, with the added, will return the win.

Six of the nine candidates by anti-klan. Their total than doubles the three neutral candidates.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson filed petitions as the Democratic nomination, but the state Democratic refused to certify son's name, accepting his courts upheld the decision.

WIFE MAY WIN GOVERNORSHIP HUSBAND LOST

Mrs. Ferguson Is Near "Vindication."

BULLETIN.

Dallas, Tex., July 27.—Lynch Davidson of Houston went into second place in the race for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination tonight, with a lead of 128 votes over Mrs. Miriam Ferguson who held that position most of today.

The new total gives Davidson 94,896 and Mrs. Ferguson 94,768. Judge Felix Robertson of Dallas continued to increase his lead, his new total being 124,853.

Dallas, Tex., July 27.—[Special.]—Former Gov. James E. Ferguson tonight stands a good chance of achieving the strangest political revenge in the history of the country. His wife may be elected governor, to fill the office from which Mr. Ferguson was removed by impeachment by the state legislature.

The election of Mrs. Ferguson, if she succeeds, will be the result of the family's plea to the voters for vindication from the charges on which Mr. Ferguson was removed from office and on which he was held ineligible to hold any office within the state.

Carry Appeal to Voters. He was removed in 1917, convicted on ten of the twenty-one charges on which he was tried by the senate. The vote for conviction was 27 to 4. The charges mostly concerned misappropriation of public funds.

The Ferguson family decided to carry the appeal to the decision of the voters in the campaign which ended in the primary on Saturday. Mr. Ferguson did most of the speaking while Mrs. Ferguson stayed in Temple to attend the business in their little butcher shop. Her main contribution was a signed appeal to the "wives and mothers of the state" asking for the vindication.

In the primary voting Mrs. Ferguson ran second to Judge Felix Robertson of Dallas, sponsored by the Klan. The latest figures available tonight were Robertson, 124,152; Mrs. Ferguson, 94,737, and Lynch Davidson of Houston, 94,725, with the other six candidates having votes running from 50,000 down to 3,000 and 4,000.

Hope for "Run-Off" Victory. Under the Texas election laws, a candidate must have a majority of all of the votes cast in a primary to gain the nomination. In case a majority is not obtained, the two high candidates enter a "run-off" primary, a majority to decide the nomination.

This would throw the "run-off" contest to Mrs. Ferguson and Robertson. The Ferguson forces are confident that Robertson showed near his maximum power in Saturday's race and that Mrs. Ferguson, with the votes gained from the seven candidates who drop from the race and, with the anti-Klan vote added, will return the winner.

Six of the nine candidates were openly anti-Klan. Their total vote more than doubles the three pro-Klan or neutral candidates.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson originally filed petitions as candidates for the Democratic nomination in the primary, but the state Democratic committee refused to certify Mr. Ferguson's name, accepting his wife's.

The courts upheld the decision that the impeachment forbade Mr. Ferguson's holding any office.

Takes Husband's Platform. Mrs. Ferguson announced that she was adopting the platform announced by her husband before the courts ruled that he could not be a candidate. She asserted "he will help me to give the people of Texas the best administration that our ability, tempered with love and gratitude, can produce."

"I have a little bright-eyed grandson whom I love dearer than life itself," her statement to the voters said. "Some of these days he will grow up to be a man, and maybe he might want to run for office and serve his country. If, when he does, somebody wants to point the finger of scorn at him and say, 'Your grandfather was impeached by the senate of Texas,' I want that grandson to be able to say, 'Yes, and as a rebuke to that impeachment my dear grandmother was elected governor by the people of Texas—the first woman governor in the world.'"

"Mother, father, son or brother, won't you help me!" she asked. "Jim and I are not seeking revenge; we are asking for the name of our children to be cleared of this awful judgment. If any wrong has been done, God in heaven knows we have suffered enough. Though we have lost the most of our earthly possessions in these years of trouble, we shall not complain if the people will keep us from losing our family name, which we want to leave to our children."

Shepard Far in Lead. United States Senator Morris Shepard, seeking reelection, had a majority of 13,128 over Fred W. Davis of Austin, the total vote tabulated giving Shepard 117,141, and Davis 44,013. John F. Maddox, the third senatorial candidate, had received 20,568.

Returns still were meager in the congressional race, but all of the incumbents probably have been renom-

LA FOLLETTE THE ONLY WET ENTRY, METHODIST SAYS

Spirit Lake, Ia., July 27.—Robert M. La Follette is "the only wet candidate," Clarence True Wilson, corresponding secretary of the board of temperance and public morals of the Methodist Episcopal church, told a camp meeting here today.

He praised the candidates and platforms of both major parties, and asserted that the mission of the United States was to try out ideals of humanity and government and to demonstrate that government "of, by, and for the people" is good enough for the church, the state, and the people of the whole world.

"We are face to face with another national contest," he said, "but we are to be congratulated on the high ideals of both platforms and the character and loyalty to government institutions that the four men who are running in the major parties stand for. You could not get a poor President out of that list."

"Both parties manfully stepped up to the standard of the eighteenth amendment and pledged an enforcement program."

"The only party and the only wet candidate running is Robert M. La Follette. He has been continuously wet. He has resorted to the most un-American methods in breaking up legislatures that have cost his country millions of dollars in wasted time. He has been a czar in his own state politics, eliminating all the men who would not bow down to his 'graven image.'"

"I am a progressive. I find myself in sympathy with all the principles that the various progressive parties advocate, the cause is worthy of a better standard bearer. We will have to stand pat or not stand anywhere."

Stabbing Gives Wedding Guests Thrill; One Held

An Italian wedding held in Roti's Hall, North Sangamon street and West Grand avenue, ended in a near riot last night when three men quietly entered the hall, viewed for a moment the festivities, and then, as Russell Dolce, 22, 1140 Grand avenue, passed by, stabbed him in the back and escaped. Dolce, whose condition is said not to be serious, told the police that he had just dropped in to see what was going on, that he was not one of the guests. A shrug of his shoulders was his only reply as to the identity of his assailants.

"House of Correction" Patrons May Be Right

Police from the East Chicago avenue station arrested six persons last night in vice raids made on two "coffee shops." The first place raided is called by the owner, Vincenzo Noga, "The Gold Coast House of Correction," 883 Rush street. Five men were taken. From there the squad closed in on the Pompeii Inn, 18 East Chicago avenue, and arrested the proprietor. The police charge that liquor was found in both places.

ROB YELLOW CAB DRIVER. Thomas Bestler, 5341 Calumet avenue, a Yellow Cab chauffeur, was robbed of $9 by three men at Fifty-first and Halsted streets.

A Consistent Advertising Policy Pays

Experiences during war days and the occasional "easing off" in business since then, have conclusively proved the wisdom and real value of consistent advertising as part of a general business policy.

To wait for business to lag before beginning to advertise, and when business is "rushing" to refuse to advertise, is ill-advised. The successful businesses which show the least variations in volume and profits are in most instances the businesses that adhere to a plan of advertising year after year. And this is but an expression of consistent policies on other important operations of the business.

Our experience of twenty years in helping to formulate and execute sound methods of operation may be of value to you in connection with your advertising policy. We will be pleased to confer with you at your convenience.

ON CITY'S FIRST PERFECT BEACH DAY 3 DROWN

Many Thousands Find
Relief in Lake.

Two little boys were drowned yesterday in Lake Michigan while enjoying the first real warm Sunday of the summer, and a third met his death when seized with cramps while swimming in a community pool at Yorkville, Ill.

The first victim was John Kane, 3 years old, 3523 Ellis avenue. The little fellow accidentally tumbled into the water while walking along a pier at the foot of 28th street. Firemen were not successful in their attempt to revive him with a pulmonary.

George Jadonski, 5 years old, 1527 McHenry street, got beyond his depth while paddling about in shallow water near the shore at North avenue. Police Henry Barth heard the boy scream, but the lad was unconscious when rescued and died at Alexian Brothers' hospital.

Drowns in Swimming Pool.
The swimming pool victim was Perry William Ouse, 1 year old son of Postmaster William Ouse of Yorkville. Although 1,500 other children were in the water at the time and his mother was sitting nearby, no one noticed until too late that young Ouse had sunk beneath the surface after being seized with cramps. Lifeguards rescued the body.

Aside from the three fatalities no serious accidents were reported from the city's beaches which were thronged with myriads of bathers from early morning until closing time.

It was the first ideal Sunday for swimmers thus far this summer, beach superintendents declared. The mercury did not ascend above 74 during the day and the temperature of the water stood at 64 degrees.
Estimated at 200,000.
At least 200,000 merry-makers, it was estimated, paddled in the cooling waves or lolled in contentment upon the sandy shore. And up and down the lake shore of the entire Chicago district, roughly judged, from Gary to Zion City, some estimators went so far as to reckon that almost a million indulged in a day of frolic in the water. But guards were particularly watchful. It being the first "big day" of the swimming season, many novices were out. Harry Walls, director at the 76th street beach, said no less than ten persons were rescued by his staff from dangerous shoals off-shore.

"But it was a most enjoyable and most satisfying day," said Walls. "By next Sunday everybody will be broken in and there won't be as much danger." Excitement was caused at Clarendon beach when a flivver, parked nearby, accidentally caught fire.

Hurl Train from Track, Using Brakes to Save Auto
Oshkosh, Wis., July 27.—An auto stalled at a street crossing today. A heavy freight train loaded with lumber was bearing down on it. To avoid hitting it, the engineer jammed his airbrakes so tightly that the entire train telescoped and leaped the tracks. Several cars crashed through a house. Another part of the train wrecked a barn.

WILD FOR ILLEGAL ENTRY.
Abraham Klockmush, 50, was arrested at the request of immigration authorities yesterday by Fillmore street police on charge of entering the United States illegally from Canada. He will be turned over to federal authorities today for arraignment before United States Commissioner Glass.

3 KILLED, 6 HURT, 5 OF THEM BADLY; TRAIN HITS AUTO

Philadelphia, Pa., July 27.—Two women and a boy were killed and six persons were injured, five seriously, when a Reading train crashed into an automobile tonight at a crossing at Willow Grove Park, on the outskirts of the city.

Those killed were Mrs. Morris Stein, Mrs. Helen Morningstar, and the latter's son, Jerome Morningstar. The injured are Julius Stein, his wife, son, and daughter; George Maxheimer, engineer of the train, and Roy Templeton, the fireman.

Witnesses said Mrs. Julius Stein, who was driving the automobile, became confused as she approached the crossing, or that the brakes of her car failed to hold. Application of the emergency brakes by Engineer Maxheimer caused the rails to spread, derailing the locomotive and two cars. The locomotive turned over and was badly wrecked.

AUTO SPEEDERS BY HUNDREDS GATHERED IN

With traffic congested with throngs of Sunday motorists, police all over the city were active yesterday in seeing that the speed regulations are laid down by Chief Morgan A. Collins were carried out to the letter. As a result several hundred persons were arrested throughout the city.

But one death was reported throughout the day, although there were numerous minor accidents. Mrs. Mary Ratke, 61 years old, 1052 West Harrison, died at the county hospital from injuries she received on July 7 when she was struck by an automobile driven by Andrew Mazzarello, 700 Norton street.

Child Is Injured.
While attempting to avoid a collision with another car, an automobile driven by Joseph Rutkowski, 1414 Noble street, struck and probably fatally injured Willard Smith, 4 years old, 1825 Wabasha avenue. The accident occurred at Wabasha avenue near Wood street, witnesses saying Rutkowski drove onto the curb. He was held by the Chicago avenue police.

Miss Georgia Page, 3952 West Chicago avenue, and Felix Priore, 8 years old, 544 North Springfield avenue, were severely injured when a picnic truck, loaded with children, crashed into an automobile driven by Ambrose Gerace, 3540 West Chicago avenue. The truck, driven by G. H. Boyaki, 4637 Waveland avenue, overturned.

Drivers Accused of Drinking.

Three men were arrested by the Fillmore street police and charged with driving their cars while intoxicated as the result of minor accidents in which the drivers were found to have been drinking. They are Herman Goldblatt, 1231 Turner avenue; Edmund Andrey, 1419 North Komensky avenue; and Earl Reuther, 5549 West Van Buren street.

The record for the largest number of speeding arrests for yesterday is said to belong to Sgt. Frank "Cannonball" Hackett of the motorcycle squad. He and his partner, Policeman John Ontank, made seventy-four arrests on the north and northwest sides. Other arrests on the north side bring the total close to 200 and according to police reports this average was maintained throughout the city.

GIRLS WITH MUDDY SHOES TELL OF RIDE

With shoes muddy and badly torn from a ten mile walk, Irene Jernek, 19, and Mabel Wurster, 18, both of 2145 Warner avenue, came walking wearily home about daylight yesterday, after parents had spent a frantic night searching for them.

The girls told the North Robey street police that two young men had driven up to them as they were standing at Roscoe and North Robey streets and asked them if they wanted to take a little ride. They accepted and were driven about ten miles out on the Higgins road.

"Something went wrong with the car," and the young men did nothing to fix it. "I guess they thought we wouldn't walk," said one of the girls, "but we showed them."

Fillmore street police are searching for a man who invited Beale Probski, 11, 3738 West 18th street, into his car Saturday night, and then drove her to the forest preserve near Maywood and attacked her. He then brought her back and let her out near her home.

Home Canned Berries!

BERRY canning is very easy. Wash the berries and pack in glass jars without blanching. Fit a new GOOD LUCK rubber ring on each jar. Make a medium syrup by boiling four cups of sugar in two quarts of water, fill up the jars with the hot syrup and sterilize 15 to 20 minutes according to the ripeness of the fruit. If the canned berries are for exhibition or sale, it is a good plan to let them stand in the sugar syrup for several hours before sterilizing. This will help to keep the fruit from rising to the top of the liquid.

POST-PITTSBURGH PLUS.

Where will the steel mills be? Many will leave the east for locations about Chicago. The end of Pittsburgh plus will bring them. Though the profit to the United States Steel corporation in producing steel at Gary and selling it plus the Pittsburgh freight made their western mills unquestionably profitable, there can be little doubt that still more steel will be produced in this region as a result of the federal trade commission's decision. Some western community will gain hugely by the new coming of steel. That town will be the one most energetic in going after it.

Gary, Ind., may take the mills. The Illinois harbor district may get them. The sanitary commission may induce them to locate along the drainage canal. Calumet lake, if its development be sufficiently encouraged by the Chicago city council, may be the place. In the Calumet district alone investments of more than $200,000,000 are already waiting for the assured end of Pittsburgh plus. South Wisconsin, with more favorable industrial legislation, and northern Indiana have possibilities. Joliet, Marseilles, Ottawa, if they stop quarreling over the details of the deep waterway, and the state builds the locks south of the drainage canal, may get them and increase real estate values tenfold. Where there is coal, unlimited water, transportation facilities for ore and ingot steel, a proximity to market, and a favorable community, the mills will locate. The Chicago district provides them all.

Mills about Chicago now have a capacity for ingot steel of 7,500,000 tons. With Birmingham, Ala., Pueblo, Colo., St. Louis and the Pacific coast the total western capacity is 12,500,000 tons. This is somewhat more than 20 per cent of the nation's ingot production capacity. But the market west and south of Pittsburgh without doubt will absorb much more than this. Local industry without the handicap of Pittsburgh plus will supply it.

There will be new steel mills in the west. Every farmer on the average consumes a ton of steel every year in implements and other fittings. Every automobile owner, every citizen consumes it. But the westerner with his large per capita automobile population, his new buildings, his engineering projects needs more steel per head than does the east. And the west makes it more cheaply.

"If I were an investor," says Col. Bope, "I do not believe that I would want to put a dollar in a steel plant east of the Allegheny mountains. I think it would be a bad investment to do so. I doubt very much whether I would want to put any money in a plant in Pittsburgh or Youngstown today. But when it comes to the lower lakes, I should think it would be a good investment today to put money in any steel plant there, because there are advantages that that section has over other sections of the country. There you have a water supply and you are nearer to your ore supply if you are using Mesabi ore (Minnesota ore). You can make pig iron along that route for $1.50 a ton cheaper than at interior points, perhaps. The steel industry is coming west. It will rebuild one, perhaps many, communities about Chicago. Some aggressive towns will get a fortune."

LABOR AND RADICALISM.

While the most conspicuous and influential leader of labor in the United States, the veteran Samuel Gompers, is a sturdy individualist, the socialist movement in labor has grown in the last generation and many leaders are socialists, either of the thoroughgoing or opportunist variety. Now far socialism will extend among wage earners only the future can disclose, but there is reason to hope that it will decline rather than increase.

We do not base such hope on the influence and validity of arguments against socialism, but upon economic conditions, which are modifying and reversing the material interests of the wage earner. Socialism, however its opportunism may disguise or qualify its immediate objects, looks to the abolition of private property. But it is the fortunate and beneficent fact that wage earners are becoming in increasing numbers possessors of property. This cannot but change their attitude toward the institution and right of private property and toward proposals inimical to it.

One of the most desirable phases of this distribution of property in our country is the growth of employee ownership. We have not complete data on this subject, but some of its facts are known: for example, 250 electric light companies, it is noted by a writer in the Atlantic, are selling stock to employees. The employees of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit company own 120,000 shares of its stock and are expected to take $5,000,000 more in 1924, which will give them command of about a third of the total issue. The Pennsylvania railway has a large employee shareholding. One half of the stockholders in Armour and Company are employees. The Steel corporation and other great corporations pursue a policy of offering preferences and easy terms of purchase to employees, and this in a period of high wages is meeting encouraging response.

Meanwhile the great federations are amassing large capital reserves, and we have recently commented on the development of labor banking institutions. The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers is said to control over $100,000,000 through investment in nine banks. In less than a year the Amalgamated Clothing Workers' bank in New York showed a tenfold growth of deposits, and another recently opened labor bank in that city took in over $5,000,000 in deposits on its first day. The United Mine Workers last fall had $1,100,000 on deposit in Indianapolis and the surplus of the Amalgamated Association of Street Railway Workers is over $6,000,000, and all its expenses are met by interest on its deposits and investments, while its surplus is steadily growing.

These are the effects of good policy and also of an era of business prosperity and employment at high wages. We think both are going to continue. The new policy of restricted immigration and other factors are going to sustain American wages on a high level. If American economic enterprise is not stricken by radical law experiments and destructive government interference, and if we do not involve ourselves in unwise European commitments. The way is open for a broadening prosperity for all our people if we follow the policies which have brought us to the high level we are now on. Improvements in machinery and method, avoidance of wasteful struggle between employer and employee, increasing sense of responsibility and interdependence on the part of both, saving and sound investment of savings by the wage earner, increase of his ownership of the enterprise in which he is engaged, relief from competition of newcomers or seasonal workers of low standards of living, with the evolution of well considered policies for the extension of his regulation of conditions of his employment and his participation in the profits of industry, all these make up a situation which is bright with promise. Good sense, good temper, fair play are the only essentials for employer and employee. The rest is in our hands if we have these. But politics is going to have little to do with it except mischief, especially the politics of those who, in the pretense of devotion to the workers and to progress, inflame unreasonable discontent, impatience, and class hatred, and ask us to turn our backs upon our great advance in human welfare and the policies which have organized and carried it on.

THE ASSOCIATION OPPOSED TO PROHIBITION.

The Association Opposed to Prohibition has been set up to extend its organization in Illinois. Drys sometimes call this a lawless body of citizens. It is exactly the reverse. It seeks within the proper channels of political action to obtain such modification of prohibition, absolute in theory and unenforced in fact, as may be had.

The country now is dealing with this question in the greatest lawlessness. The modification is by the bootlegger, moonshiner, beer runner, corrupt federal agent, rum smuggler and jack-knifer, by murder, piracy, theft, extortion, bribery and fraud which seeks to corrupt agents of the law. Prohibition enforcement has been in some instances a draconic denial of rights which Americans thought were written at the base of their institutions. It has broken down respect for law. It is a struggle between people who are not compelled to live in any fashion or with any habits they do not themselves select and people who are told that they must not do what they think is perfectly proper and right to do. Such struggles are not ended easily if the people of the second class are numerous.

The question is how the contest shall be continued, whether it shall proceed by legal political methods or by condoned lawlessness. The Association Opposed to Prohibition stands for lawful methods. We have envied the Canadians their freedom in determining this question by the decision of the people in reasonable political units. They amend their law as they please and they have found our prohibition unworkable and are abandoning it.

They are establishing a workable system of government control which they find has better results than their experiment with our methods. Americans face the mistake of prohibition by constitutional amendment. The Association Opposed to Prohibition works first to obtain a congress which will attempt a modification of the Volstead act. If the people elect such a congress it may be possible to redefine intoxicating liquor. A modified law undoubtedly would be passed upon by the Supreme court. If the court pronounced against even a light beer which in common use would not derange the mind or affect the behavior of a user, then the way by congressional action is closed and nothing remains but a repeal of the eighteenth amendment, generally regarded as hopeless in this generation, or a continuance of the present practices by which the individual does as he pleases, when and how he can.

The Other Side

INDICTED AT LAST.

(Nation, New York.)

At last! Secretary Fall, Harry Sinclair, and the two Dohenys have been indicted, the Dohenys for bribery, Mr. Fall for accepting a bribe, and all four for conspiracy to defraud the United States. The indictments, of course, rest upon the evidence which Senator Walsh uncovered in his long and arduous investigation; but why we should have had to wait nearly six months after Doheny's confession that his son took $100,000 in a suitcase to the former cabinet officer in New Mexico is difficult to understand. The unpleasant fact is that the administration has not lifted a finger to stop the looting except when, as, and if forced to do so by the action of persistent senators. There is no question here as to the essential facts. Mr. Doheny and Mr. Fall have confessed; if they escape it will be only because they cannot be forced to testify against themselves. These things remain uncontroverted: Walsh secretary of the interior in the Harding administration, Mr. Fall secretly transferred the navy's oil lands to Messrs. Doheny and Sinclair; he received $100,000 as a "loan," still unpaid, from Mr. Doheny and, upon retirement, a lucrative job from Mr. Sinclair. While Wilson was still in office Mr. Doheny hired his son-in-law, Mr. McAdoo, for an even larger sum, and Mr. Sinclair bought the presidency of the Roosevelt name by hiring the brother of the assistant secretary of the navy at a salary far beyond his value.

A STUDY OF THE OBESSE.

At the recent meeting of the American Medical Association, Dr. Solomon Strouse presented an audience of physicians that he would present a paper on obesity, a report on a four year study of obesity. About all he was ready to say there was the following:

"Some obese people are not large eaters. Some digest and use their foods about like other people. The obese do not need fats. When they eat fat it does not act as fat do in others. Certain effects from eating lean meat and eggs are not the same in the obese as in normal people."

Dr. McFester discussed the same subject in more detail. He said it is not necessary to resort to fad diets in order to reduce. He strongly advised against the use of thyroid as a reducing medicine. His advice was that an obese person follow a diet and routine which will cause him to lose from one-half pound to one and a half pounds a week, without making him feel bad or weak, and to keep it up. Exercise should be mild and long continued, never too violent. He especially advocated cold baths as all who react well after them. A cold bath causes the body to burn up large amounts of fuel. In fixing on a diet he selects one which will not cause acidosis, headaches, nor flatulence, nor "gonesness," and which will cause weight to melt away slowly.

He eliminated fat nearly entirely from the diet. The obese do not need it, and when they eat it the results are not what a normal person expects to get from fat. He, therefore, eliminates as much as possible butter, gravy, lard, cream, fat meats, and all other greases. Dr. McFester gives a diet that is rather high in lean meat and eggs. Protein can be burned into sugar and made into fat. Nevertheless, the obese person must have food, and lean meat is less objectionable than any other food.

Ordinarily, starch and sugar supply the energy needed and protect the protected parts of the human body. If the diet is poor in starch and sugar, these protected parts of the body are in need of protection. Besides, nothing else is so staying, so sticks to the ribs as do lean meat and eggs.

He advises starch foods and sweets in small quantities. Fats diets that call for cutting out all bread, pastry, and sweets of every kind go to unjustified extremes and do not properly protect the

Dear, the long years and spaces stretch between us, striving to prove this love of ours untrue. They cannot part us! Always, in song or fashion, I shall belong to you!

When laughing May flings blossoms on the hedges And lifts along the lanes that once we knew, Go seek our lilac-hidden trysting places— I shall not fail to keep the rendezvous!

When o'er your garden cypress trees, a white moon floats like a lotus on calm twilight seas, I shall be there beside you, yet not speaking, Lest we should startle ducks' frail conjuries.

When ruddy phantoms greet you from the hearth flame To build tomorrow's hope, today's desire, My hand shall creep in yours and I shall linger Until the last dream climbs its gleaming spire.

When on the last adventure, you, unafraid, Shall scan some far horizon's unknown blue, My shining bark shall slip from out the sunset, To sail at dawn with you!

YES, OR YOU WON'T SEE MAMMA AT ALL.

R. H. L.: Bein' vacation time, I figure that a authority on fishin' like myself shoud kondesend ter tell where an' how ter catch the game fish. I purpose ter do so in a series of 25 weekly lectures:

The Oomph-Oomph.

The oomph-oomph is probably the greatest uv all game fish. It is found in the Vermillion river between the Manville bridge an' Pope's creek, an' swims backward so he kin see wot's kumin' behind him. He lives in mortal fear uv overexertin' himself, so he stops every 100 ft. or so to see if he is perspirin'. There is 2 methods uv catchin' the oomph-oomph, 1st way is ter bait yer hook with a watermelon, but the simplest method is ter take advantage uv his uncanny taste for good music. Yuh git in a boat an' start drivin' the same time bustlin' out inter grand operry. Ride away them fish leave the river an' climb a tree in order ter get a good view uv the singer. Then yuh go over an' shake the tree an' the oomph-oomphs fall in the water an' git drowned. Aleck Eckstot, who unter hed the waltons in that vicinity, cot 243 oomph-oomphs in 1 hour by singin' the immortal Tosti's greatest operry: "Yuh gotta see mamma every time."

IT'S THE WOMEN MAKE THEM SMART.

R. H. L.: "Not that I love Helen Henna, less, but James Branch Cabell, more." I read his "Rigures of Earth" shortly after it appeared and my delight knew no bounds. Next I read "Jurgan," and my pleasure and wonder grew at the brilliance and knowledge of the man. "Gallantry" is as charming a collection of stories as I have ever read. To my notion "Second April" in that collection is near perfection. I am disappointed that Miss Henna attempted to slay him with her clever pen, for I would have sworn she was in the mind to get a mighty wallop from such ingenious and subtle satire as Cabell's. I admire her contributions immensely, and lately she has been my Exhibit A against that world old masculine affirmation that "Men are smarter than women." However, "Chacun a son gout," for as Cabell says in his preface to "Jurgan," "This is a story with precisely as many meanings as the reader has brain cells."

WANTED, A SUBSTITUTE FOR

Chicago, July 23.—There seems to be a growing interest in place names of historic value. To reestablish names of pioneer origin in itself is a fine thing. It is patriotic, cultural and fundamental. Chicago may profit by this in more than one way. Politically, we are divided into wards. The name "ward" in itself is cold and artificial. The ward is nothing to enthuse over; nothing to tie to. Most folks do not know their ward boundaries; many do not know the names of the wards. The name "ward" is a little or no responsibility, and modern flat life does not better this. A great many of our citizens live and die knowing little or nothing of the names of their immediate environs. One gets lost, so to speak, in the complex of a great city; one cannot comprehend its vastness. The average citizen, therefore, and justly so, is most interested in his immediate surroundings, if interested at all.

We are composed of towns and villages, all with a name, a certain amount of history, and pioneer traditions. As soon as a village is swallowed up by the central body, like a prisoner it is identified with a number and becomes a part of such and such a ward, or an entirely new ward is created if the section is large enough.

Why not have these villages maintain their names and their political identity, and give them a certain amount of local administration, with representatives in the central government? There is no doubt in my mind that the interest would increase, citizenship would improve thereby, and a better government be the result. Under such an arrangement, would not towns like Evanston, Oak Park and others adjacent to Chicago and economically a part of Chicago be willing to join in a greater Chicago?

SHE WANTS CHURCHES TAKEN.

Chicago, July 23.—In yesterday's paper the Chicago Teachers' federation called our attention to the fact that a great deal of very valuable property in our city escapes taxation. If I understand rightly, church property has never been taxed. Since the church and state are supposed to be separate here in America, I cannot see why the churches should be so favored by the state. A good tax on all church property would furnish funds that would greatly benefit our public schools. Perhaps the teachers' federation could secure such a tax.

HOW ABOUT TAXICABS?

Chicago, July 21.

Taxicab is a word with impunity. Is it a case of immunity?

LET THE CHILDREN WORK, THEY LIKE IT.

Chicago, July 15.—If the proposed amendment to the constitution is adopted it is obvious that it will require "household" work to be done. It is also obvious that a large proportion of foreign born citizens who have no minor children may be the prospective grinders.

Employment is as attractive to healthy children as it is to adults in the prime of life, and there is nothing that gives them greater pleasure than the knowledge that they can help "father or mother." The old fashioned homes where the children helped were good enough for our fathers and mothers in the past, and they will be good enough for those of the future.

Give the children a chance; they like to work, and it is good for them.

W. R. WARD.

"I TOLD YOU ONCE TO PLAY DEAD."

Chicago, July 24.—Well, I'm back again, and just in time to read Brother Johnson's epistle on the immortal girls. The truth of the matter is, I am the rest of the congress of oddities in the city. He'll all either too homely, tight, or obscure to acquire the companionship of nice girls, so you try to cover up your own defects by pretending you're of too high a moral character to associate with them. You ought to take

THREE REASONS WHY HARRIED WOMEN WORK.

Lombard, Ill., July 13.—Much has been said and an occasional article has appeared in this column relative to the Harried Women Who Work. Several reasons can be given which will cover about all the reasons why any married woman works. Some work because their husbands are unable to work. Others work to buy finery. Some work to pass away their leisure moments, and others work to amass a fortune.

MEXICAN GIRLS ARM TO GUARD BOBBED LOCKS

Blame "War" on Hairpin and Comb Makers.

BY FREDERICK NEUMEIER.

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)

Mexico City, July 27.—Mexican City girls are preparing to fight, with extreme measures if necessary, for the right to bob their hair.

El Democrita this morning stated that bobbed haired girls are arming, and that one store had begun a special sale of flapper pistols of .23 caliber. More than fifty pistols were sold last night, the paper says.

The bobbed hair war is not the result of sudden passion, because antagonism to short hair has long been smoldering in the hearts of youthful Mexican girls, who no less than other Latin girls, particularly the Spaniards, are admirers of long, dusky locks surmounted with a high comb.

Blames Hairpin Makers.

Esperanza Iris, Mexico's leading actress, at a special performance for women last night, said:

"The attacks probably are attributable to the machinations of hairpin and comb manufacturers, who are fast going out of business."

Senorita Iris, although a supporter of a flapper's right to do as she likes with her hair, wears her own more than three feet long.

Duel Is Called Off.

A tragic turn was narrowly averted in the bobbed hair war late Saturday when, after drawing lots for a representative to uphold the honor of the military cadets, Student Chereof challenged the president of the civil students' union to a duel.

Seconda met and arranged the details in "Salle d'Armes" of the war department. They decided to fight with pistols, but an eleventh hour mediation by mutual friends arranged a reconciliation.

The military students are confined to their barracks until tomorrow, while the medical school of the university is closed until further notice. A police parade of bobbed haired girls scheduled for tomorrow may not be held as a consequence of the intervention of the authorities, who fear a clash.

Union Labor Aids Bobbers.

Organized labor in Mexico City today distributed hundreds of thousands of handbills calling on their members to come to the aid of any bobbed haired girls who are attacked. The "Prolocks league" of youths who have vowed to suppress the practice of bobbing, now is opposed by organized labor and by the senior year university students and by two bobbed haired girls, the second of which was organized yesterday and already has 100 members.

All Mexico City theaters and movies tonight are capitalizing the war by giving bobbed hair productions.

THOUGHT A BELL CLAPPER, IT'S 4,194 YR. OLD SCEPTER

U. of P. Identifies Rare Fragment of Bronze.

Philadelphia, Pa., July 27.—What Babylonian scholars have regarded as the clapper of a bell since it was found at Nippur in 1907 has proved to be a 4,194-year-old bronze scepter of King Dungi of Ur, who ruled in 2350 B. C.—the University of Pennsylvania museum announced tonight.

The scepter was found by the archaeologists of the university museum. It was supposed to be a bell clapper with a broken shaft. It weighs ten ounces and is six inches long. It has cuneiform inscriptions at the enlarged end.

When the bronze piece was held as if it were suspended in a bell none of the scholars could read the inscription. The object was placed in the vault at the museum with other Babylonian material for further study, remaining there seventeen years.

Recently Dr. Leon Legrain, curator of the Babylonian section, was cleaning the collection. He chanced to pick up the supposed clapper and hold it as if it were a blackjack. In this position the cuneiform was decipherable. He instantly recognized the word "Dungi."

Then began the task of deciphering the entire inscription, which states that it is the royal scepter of the ruler of Ur. This is followed by the name of the king—Dungi.

All Milan Papers Except Mussolini's Confiscated

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)

ROME, July 27.—All the Milan daily papers except the Popolo d'Italia, Premier Mussolini's brother's paper, were confiscated this morning. The reason was believed to be their reprinting and commenting on an article which appeared in the Rome paper, Sereno.

The article said Sig. Rossi had begun to make revelations implicating other persons in the kidnapping and murder of Deputy Matteotti, millionaire socialist.

GOT HAY FEVER? THEN LISTEN TO DOC BUNDESEN

A remedy for hay fever victims, who have cause to dread the coming of Aug. 15 and the season when ragweed and cockle-burr pollen fills the air, is suggested by Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, health commissioner, in his weekly bulletin.

He would inject into the victim's system pollen from the plants that cause the most acute suffering. It is necessary to have the treatment completed before the coming of the hay fever season, Dr. Bundesen says.

The pollen sets up in the system a counter irritant, he explains. It has proved beneficial to 90 per cent of the hay fever victims who have tried the treatment, he declares.

Dr. Bundesen also suggests that hay fever victims, during the dog days, wear colored glasses, ride in closed cars where possible, avoid sudden changes in temperature, and sleep with closed windows.

SETS RECORD

Miss Josephine Morse of the South Shore Country club, present holder of the Women's Western Golf association junior title, is expected to have little trouble qualifying today over the home course in the fourth annual renewal of the event.

The eight players finishing with the lowest scores will contest at match play, the first round being scheduled tomorrow. The finals will be played Thursday.

The 1924 club championship, held under the auspices of the Jackson Park club and sanctioned by the Western Golf association, will be held the week of Aug. 4 at Jackson Park. The qualifying rounds will be held Aug. 4 and 5, the sixty-four low scorers qualifying for the finals. The entry fee is $10, plus 25 cents green fee required by the South Park commissioners. Entries can be sent to the Jackson Park club at 1540 East 83rd street.

Play in the women's Cook county championship will start this morning at Jackson Park with a field of over eighty. Entries will be accepted at the tee.

The Chicago Municipal Golf club will stage its next tournament at the Wilmette Golf club, Wilmette, Aug. 3.

The Bertrams Golf club will hold a one day tournament for members of the Women's Western Golf association tomorrow. There will be a medal play handicap in the morning and a nine hole best ball match in the afternoon.

The Illinois Athletic Golf club will hold its third tournament of the season at Beverly on Wednesday. The qualifying rounds for the championship will be played.

William W. O'Brien desires to remind the Old Boys that the Exmoor veterans tournament will be held Wednesday, Aug. 28, at the golfers over 55 years of age. The fee of $3 covers all expenses. An entry of 100 is looked for.

Budling Woods last Greenview, 8 to 4, in a daily fee association match played at the former course.

The following were scheduled for play for the directors' cup:

'MOON' KILLS 4; ONE DIES AFTER A 'FIRST SHOT'

Leap from Loop Hotel Is Fatal to Another.

Moonshine claimed four more victims in Chicago yesterday.

One man died at the psychopathic hospital of delirium tremens, another, crazed by bad liquor, fell or jumped from a room in a loop hotel, a third was found dead from the effects of drink in an alley on the northwest side, while a fourth died after a drunken "argument" with a friend. In the latter death the alleged bootlegger is being held.

Held as Bootlegger.

Jacob Rich, 44, 2362 Belmont avenue, was arrested by Irving Park police on the charge that he had sold hooch to John Galvin, 34, 3410 North Harding avenue, who was found dead on a pile of hay in the rear of the Belmont avenue address. Irving Park police held Rich as a material witness at an inquest which will be held today. Rich has admitted selling liquor, but denies that he sold that which caused Galvin's death.

Police say, however, that they will produce a witness who says he bought liquor from Rich and gave Galvin "a shot." He says Galvin dropped dead immediately.

Leaps to Death.

Frank L. Shaffer, 44, who, the South Clark police said, had pined himself with moonshine, fell or jumped from a third floor room in the Moose hotel, 127 South Clark street, and was killed instantly.

Michael Shea, 45, 1708 Devon avenue, died at the psychopathic hospital yesterday of delirium tremens. He was arrested by the Cicero police Friday and taken to the hospital for treatment.

Held After Death Blow.

John Welts, 5028 Lawrence avenue, was arrested yesterday in connection with the death of David Dotz, 5405 Higgins avenue. Dotz was found unconscious on the sidewalk at 4862 Milwaukee avenue. He died a few minutes after murmuring Welts' name. Welts admitted that he and Dotz had been drinking and had had an argument. He struck Dotz in the face, he said, knocking him to the ground.

TANKS USED BY BRAZIL IN DRIVE ON REBEL ARMY

Washington, D. C., July 27.—[By Associated Press.]—Continued success of the government troops against the Sao Paulo rebels in Brazil is reported in two communiques received here by the Brazilian embassy and made public today.

The first, dated noon of July 26, reads: "The government troops continued to make real advances, driving the rebels from their positions. Complete success of the action of yesterday against the rebels' positions has been verified by airplane reconnaissance."

Under date of July 26 at midnight the second communique says: "The government troops continued their progress, breaking the resistance of the rebels in every part, taking houses where the rebels were fighting our troops. We have made many prisoners. Intervention of the tanks was decisive wherever they were used."

POSSE HUNTING WOMAN'S SLAYER IN MICHIGAN

Lapeer, Mich., July 27.—[By Associated Press.]—Sheriff's posse led by E. F. Hackman of Dowagiac are searching for the man believed to be responsible for the murder of Mr. Hackman's daughter, Mrs. Blanche Burke, 28 year old widow, whose unclothed body was found here early today.

The woman, an employee of the Michigan Home and Training school, an institution for feeble minded, was found dead in a swamp after she had failed to return to her home last night. The body was covered with bruises and bound with wire. Her clothing was not found.

The only clue to the identity of the woman's assailant was a pair of cuff links found near the body.

Gasoline Perils Fighters at $50,000 Mystery Fire

Fifty thousand dollars damage was sustained in an early morning fire yesterday when a blaze of unknown origin broke out in the three story brick building housing the National Casino company at 512 West 88th street. The flames made such headway that a 4-11 alarm was sounded by Assistant Fire Chief Charles Berkley when he learned that large quantities of gasoline were stored in tanks on the third floor.

Mexican Major General Is Slain from Ambush

Mexico City, July 27.—[By Associated Press.]—Maj. Gen. Albino Rodriguez Cerrillo, federal commander in the Cordoba military district of the state of Vera Cruz, was shot from ambush and killed Friday by rebels operating under orders of Guadalupe Sanchez Toribio Beltran. Cerrillo's aid, Col. Jose Pacheco, also was killed.

ARMED BANDIT ATTACKS GIRL

Miss Marie Falter, 1427 Summerdale avenue, was robbed by an armed bandit of her wrist watch and a diamond ring valued at $100 as she was walking in Berwyn avenue near Wayne avenue yesterday.

The Man in the Shadow

By ROY VICKERS

SYNOPSIS.
Derek Slakeham is sentenced to prison for the murder of his father. His trial and conviction were a tragic mistake. He had been on his way home from Cape Town, South Africa, when he had met and fallen in love with Cecily Pendall. As Cecily had been about to disembark for Paris, Derek had asked her to marry him on her return to London. Cecily's father had given her the name of Smith, tried and sentenced for the crime. He had not notified his family of his return to England, so he had not been recognized as Lord Slakeham. Derek knew the murderers were two former associates of his father's known as Dickson and Carls. Cecily had come to England after her father's death and found her fiancé had disappeared.

INSTALLMENT XIX.
SLAKEHAM BEARS THE LION IN HIS DEN.
Slakeham knew the block of flats in which Barratt lived, but not the number. The porter had gone to bed and had to be roused. Five shillings brought him to a state of amiability. He explained that Mr. Barratt's number was fifteen and offered to show the way, which offer was declined.

Slakeham knocked, waited and knocked again. Then the light was flicked on in the hall and the door was opened.

Slakeham sized up his man. He had evidently been interrupted in the act of going to bed, for his tie was loosened. A thick-set body that contained the suggestion of great physical strength! The forehead and eyes of an intelligent man—the mouth of a secret debauchee.

"Mr. Barratt, I believe?" said Slakeham politely. "I am sorry to disturb you at this hour, but I wish to see you on a rather important matter. May I come in?"

The last words were a request, but the tone in which they were uttered gave them the quality of a threat.

"Come right in," said Barratt with assumed faintness.

Slakeham was led into a room that would have been tastefully furnished but for the fact that it was obviously meant to look expensive. Many a pigeon hole, been poked in that room, thought Slakeham. Well, he himself was only too willing to be plucked—at his own price.

"I don't know you," said Barratt more naturally, with a glance of respect for his visitor's tailor. "But sit down and let's hear your yarn. Smokes by your elbow."

"Many thanks," returned Slakeham, determined to be as suave as the other would let him. "Are you quite sure you don't know my name, Mr. Barratt? Look closely."

Barratt stared cautiously and suspiciously.

"Don't know you from Adam?" he jerked. "And I've never yet forgotten a face."

That rang true and told Slakeham where he stood.

"Well, I've seen you many times," bluffed Slakeham. "though I admit I haven't thrust myself under your notice. I've taken a considerable interest in you, Mr. Barratt, and in your two friends, Dickson and Carls."

Slakeham saw the other look again at his evening dress, this time with a queer, puzzled expression. Barratt was, no doubt, used to handling detectives and probably believed his caller to be one, but a detective in evening dress struck a dissonant note. Slakeham resolved to tread carefully. As Barratt must know a great deal about the police, it would be unwise to pretend to be connected with Scotland Yard.

"I didn't catch your name," he said. "I'm not important," answered Slakeham. "Whether I give you my name and address will depend upon whether you think that you and I can—shall I say—do business?"

Barratt smiled cynically.

"A name means nothing—and an address still less," he said. "But I'm hanged if I can guess your proposition!"

"I'll come to my proposition in a couple of minutes," said Slakeham. "I must begin by delivering my bona fides, or you will conclude I'm bluffing and shut the door at a disadvantage. I mentioned Dickson and Carls just now. I'm going to mention another name to you. Slakeham."

Slakeham was watching his man. The weak mouth twitched, but the eyes were steady.

"Does the name Slakeham mean anything to you?" continued Slakeham. "Come, Mr. Barratt! There are no witnesses present. You can say anything you like to me tonight and my naked word goes little farther than yours."

"All right. Go on, I'm listening."

"We both know the answer to that question of mine. I'll ask you one now to which you don't know the answer and I do. Where have your two friends spent the night? You don't know, do you? You're not of a suspicious enough nature to watch your friends. Well, I'll tell you. They spent it at Lord Slakeham's house and they've been robbing his safe and any other valuables they could lay hands on, I dare say. You'll appreciate that I'm telling you this in confidence, Mr. Barratt. I have the best of reasons for believing that you're not supposed to know it."

"You won't give me away, will you?" asked Slakeham with a laugh of genuine amusement.

"There's a joke somewhere, and I've missed it," said Barratt irritably. "Have they been nabbed?"

"O, no! They're quite safe—for the present," answered Slakeham. "You see, they really took little risk. They've been rather clever for once. They've found some one to impersonate Lord Slakeham, and this confederate of theirs succeeded in imposing on the old butler. The rest, as you will perceive, was easy. Tomorrow, I believe, this fellow, who is certainly the living image of Slakeham, is going to try his luck at Lord Slakeham's bank with a check passed by Carlside. You, I gather, do not figure in that act, Mr. Barratt."

"There's nothing much in that," said Barratt after a short pause. "But if you know who you are or what you're after, and I don't much care—but if you're trying to pull the wool over my eyes, I may as well tell you that I know Dickson was going through the house."

"Did you know about the double? That was a rather important piece of information for me to keep from you. Did you know about the bank stunt for tomorrow morning?"

Barratt laughed mirthlessly.

"Have a whisky?" he invited.

"No, thanks."

"You're on the old game, of course!"

BY MAURINE WATKINS.
"Revelation" reveals some good bits of photography and a story of a woman's soul. And incidentally, that sweet jumblement of realism, romanticism, and legendary miracle, called loudly for a Barrie—or at least a Masterlinck!

From "Sweet Daddy" to "Ave Marie" was only a step for Joline. She had posed as Cleopatra and Salome; she could be Madonna of the Roses, too. At any rate, her sweetest hour was a spiritual knockdown fight with Joline when both want to be the Madonna. And the young lady earns it, too, for Joline pulls her hair, claws her face, and beats her head on the marble studio floor. Dempsey fans should enjoy this scene.

The story moves rapidly in a light staccato vein throughout the café and studio scenes but drags into lingering cadences when it enters the cloister. The scenes are lovely in themselves—the dim, religious chapel light, the gracious peace of the garden—but retard the action to the point of boredom. And the ending—a conventional wedding by the rosebush—seems tacked on most unhappily.

Yes, she will be "good." Off with her rings and necktie! Farewell to the little village, her baby, and duty. (For she's deserted it some four years before to become the adopted dancer of the Montmartre.) How easy it is to be good—if you only have the rosebush! The play also needs some one not so well, someone other than Miss Viola Dana. As the teasing, fiery, jealous little dancer and model, who storms the world into her whims, Miss Dana has plenty of motion and action. Plenty! And isn't that to look upon, in fact, it's only when she tries to look good that—well, to adapt when most she plays the saint, then most she looks the devil.

Admirers of Monte Blue will like him as the artist, who rather tardily proposes marriage and gathers her son to his heart. Lew Cody, the fascinating "bad" man with lots of money, unfortunately has little to do.

Miss Margery Daw earns her salary by a spirited knockdown fight with Joline when both want to be the Madonna. And the young lady earns it, too, for Joline pulls her hair, claws her face, and beats her head on the marble studio floor. Dempsey fans should enjoy this scene.

CLOSEUPS

"Forbidden Paradise" is Pola Negri's next play. Ernest Lubitsch, who directed her in "Passion," will handle the megaphone for this Famous-Players-Lasky film.

Gloria Swanson, who arrived last week to start "Wages of Virtue," will go right back to Paris in September for the production of "Madame Sans-Gêne." This is the beginning of a broader production system, according to Mr. Lasky, who is planning to film various stars in European capitals this fall.

Effie Shannon and Florence Billings have been added to the cast of "Sinners in Heaven," the new Paramount picture for Bebe Daniels and Richard Dix.

Hoot Gibson has just finished the "Ridin' Kid from Powder River." Tully Marshall, the old frontiersman of "The Covered Wagon," has a similar rôle in this production. Others in the cast are Gladys Hulette, Gertrude Astor, and Walter Long.

Walter C. Klein, 1529 East 67th place, Leigh university student—Colleges endeavor to teach students how to make the most out of life for themselves and others, teaching them to be an ally rather than an enemy of the law. These boys grossly misused their educational privilege.

Miss Joan McQuinn, 7725 Emerald avenue, home girl—The outstanding feature is the absolute disregard of those two boys for the feelings of others. They had no thought, no feeling at all, for the poor boy when they killed him. They ought to get all that's coming to them.

Charles F. Miller, Buchanan, Mich., assistant manager—Throughout the entire time these men have shown themselves incapable of fulfilling the duties of American citizenship, and by their crimes, both of them have forfeited the rights of governmental protection. One can't respect men of that type.

Mrs. Anna Resonnette, 4556 Champlain avenue, housewife—I have a son of my own, and I think I can imagine what an awful thing that crime was. I know what I would feel like doing to the perpetrators. I'm looking forward to meeting you, and to the wonderful time we're going to have at this big baseball game.

Believe Advanced Date of Catholic Congress Error

The announcement published yesterday from Amsterdam, sent by the Associated Press, that the Eucharistic congress would be held in Chicago in 1925, is thought by Catholic authorities here to be an error. For more than a year, Cardinal Mundelein and his associates have been preparing for the Eucharistic congress, which, it has been announced several times, will be held in Chicago in June, 1926.

This will be the first time the congress has been held in the United States and the second time on the American continent, the first one having been held in Montreal in 1910.

It is expected that 1,000,000 visitors will come to Chicago and the resources of every church in the archdiocese will be taxed in entertaining the visitors and in providing for the wonderful display which will be made at Area and in Chicago.

Sally Asks Boys and Girls to Send Letters for Party at Ravinia

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.
Would you enjoy an afternoon at Ravinia, and why?

Good morning, boys and girls! Are you at work on your letters to win invitations to my party at Ravinia on Aug. 7, a week from next Thursday? If you haven't started yet, you'd better get busy right away, because it's going to be one of the best parties of the year, and you don't want to miss out on it!

For one thing, you don't want to miss out on Ravinia itself. If you've never been there, I can tell you it's one of the most beautiful places—a wonderful park away out in the country, with lots of trees, and gardens, and a wonderful cool, open-air theater. Just to be there is a treat—and we'll have wonderful music and entertainment, too. Mr. Eckstein, president of Ravinia, and Mrs. Sutherland, president of the Ravinia club and in charge of the children's day program, will see to that.

Then Mr. Britton I. Budd, president of the elevated lines, is going to give us a treat, and Mr. Budd, president of the elevated lines, is going to give us a treat, and Mr. Budd, president of the elevated lines, is going to give us a treat.

Tribune Funds and Children Win at Benefit

Win at Benefit

Vangie Helps to Make the Affair a Success.

THE TRIBUNE team lost, but THE TRIBUNE funds won.

That is the result of the benefit baseball game played yesterday afternoon in the Cub's park. The Algonquin Indians romped through the seven innings to an overwhelming victory, but the turnstiles at the entrance romped through the same sort of a conquest for the poor kids of the city.

Although the exact figures could not be submitted last night, the auditor estimated that the baseball game netted as clear profit something more than $2,000.

This money will be divided between the Camp Algonquin fund and THE TRIBUNE free fund. It will provide summer vacations for the kids of the tenements and free ice for the mothers of the poor. A thousand dollars added to each fund will be a great help to the poor of this scorching city.

Carl Ed, Sidney Smith, Gaar Williams, Harvey Woodruff, Frank Williams, Carey Orr, and Richard Henry Little, the stars of THE TRIBUNE's roster of humorists, staged a mimic ball game before the Indians started in trimming THIS TRIBUNE team.

The girls of Artists and Models—now playing at the Apollo—sold $200 worth of score cards and had a great time kidding the ball players.

The sport page will furnish an account of the baseball game proper.

The benefit has been staged. It won $2,000 for the fund. But THE TRIBUNE is scoring under the July sun and the poor are suffering. Contributions to these two funds are necessary or many kids will wilt on the pavement of poverty. Chicago must give more money to the funds. Send your contributions to THE TRIBUNE, 7 South Dearborn street.

Fried Vegetables.

This is the season of voluntary or prescribed vegetarianism. Vegetarianism is a gloomy cult under some circumstances, but the excellent vegetable cook can make vegetable meals that are epicurean and altogether glad. Most attractive, and more or less formal, little luncheons are within their scope, and she can almost or quite deceive into complete satisfaction those who do not have any ambitions directed towards meatless meals.

Fried eggplant gently cooked may be as creamy and pleasant eating as sweetbreads. Tomatoes cut in thick slices, or merely cut in half, rolled in flour and gently fried, with just a little gravy made around them with milk and no extra flour besides that in the pan, may have a flavor comparable to beefsteak. Green tomatoes give something different when sliced, dipped in egg and crumbs, and fried. Beets peeled and sliced raw, and fried in pork fat, make an excellent substitute for a meat cutlet, and fried turnip (first boiled) makes a dainty center for a meal.

Fried turnips.—Peel and slice good sized white turnips in one-third inch slices. Boil till tender in a little water, drain, and fry about five minutes to a side, and gently all the time, in bacon fat or until just browned a bit. Hard cooking makes even fine turnips strong.

Beef cutlets.—Peel and slice good sized beets, and put them into a hot frying pan in which butter has been melted. Cover the pan, cook over a fire which will not burn the butter, and after ten or fifteen minutes cook until slices are tender, salting lightly. Salt pork fat may be used instead of butter.

MISS T: IT WOULD NOT BE fair to blame the bobbing of your hair for its growing darker, as that really would have no such effect upon it. Blonde hair turns darker as one grows older. It is the natural course, and there is nothing to do about it. When shampooing, add lemon juice to the last rinse water, to help retain the golden tint.

N. C. D.: THE FORMATIONS YOU describe are whiteheads, I believe. They are a form of blackhead protected from surface dirt. The way to treat them is to soften the skin with hot towels, doing so until the skin is faintly pink, then open each little blemish with a sterilized needle, and press out the contents. Wash on a little peroxide and then massage gently with cold cream. They do not recur as frequently as blackheads.

MISS JAY: ROUGE IS NOT HARMFUL to the skin if used carefully and removed at night when the face is cleaned with cold cream. Of course, you should use a rouge of good quality.

Mrs. Hibbard Little Mixie Tennis and

BY PANDOL

It looks as though the voting ladies of the late offered an opportunity to match, not their wits, but with the tennis racquet. Before she went away, Mrs. Hibbard, earnest admirer and friend of Mrs. William C. Hibbard, regional director of the National League of Women's Tennis, had evolved the idea of a tournament for any of the voting league who might be interested in the game. She understood that Mrs. Hibbard was planning to invite the players to court at her lovely White Lake, but it's possible that arrangements are made on shore country, clubs or instead.

Mrs. Hibbard is at "way up on the North Coast," at least, it sounds like a place for the summer. She expects to make a land before she comes back, which probably will be in the middle of August. She is true, there will be something in the way of tennis in the absence of the way, is one of the mental of players, wavy hair and her eyes the Illinois League of Women's Tennis. The purpose of the game for sociality, is to for the league's operation.

It's a pleasant occupation sitting out under great shade of a rocky pool of tea and an agreeable place and working in the coming winter, and Mrs. Hibbard is looking forward to a good of the league members.

Mrs. Hibbard Plans Little Mixture of Tennis and Politics

BY PANDORA.

It looks as though the political and tennis ladies of the land were to be joined in a most unusual way, for Mrs. Hibbard, fourth regional director of the National League of Women Voters, is planning to give a tennis tournament for the benefit of the league. Mrs. Hibbard is going to invite the players to use the court at her lovely Winnetka home, but it's possible that when the arrangements are made one of the north shore country clubs will be chosen instead.

Mrs. Hibbard is at the moment 'way up on the North Cape. Geographically, at least, it sounds like an ideal place for the sultry months, as it is the northernmost point of Europe. She expects to make a visit in England before she comes home again, which probably will be about the middle of August. And then, if the report be true, there will be something interesting in the way of tennis.

In the absence of their leader, who, by the way, is one of the most ornamental of platformers, with her gray hair and her exquisite coloring, the Illinois League of Women Voters is having an afternoon tea party this afternoon in Mrs. Hibbard's garden. The purpose of the gathering, aside from sociability, is to formulate plans for the league's operations next season.

It's a pleasant occupation, that of sitting out under great old trees, on the edge of a rocky point, with a cup of tea and an agreeable group of associates, and working out the business of the coming winter, and Mrs. Clair More, chairman of special events, is looking forward to a goodly gathering of the league members.

Day's News in Society

The sale of Blythwood Farm, the estate of Mr. and Mrs. John Allen Spoor of 1524 State parkway, at Pittsfield, Mass., is reported by our chronicler of Chicago society affairs in the Berkshire. A syndicate of Pittsfield men headed by Mayor Charles W. Power, working for preservation of the forest along the mile and a half of Onota lake front, has purchased the place which Mr. and Mrs. Spoor bought in 1904. Blythwood was then part of the estate of the late Wirt Dexter Walker of Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. Spoor are spending this summer at Hyannisport on Cape Cod.

Mrs. Warren M. Salisbury has returned to tour from a motor trip through the Green mountains in Vermont. Dr. and Mrs. Robert Archibald MacArthur of 1113 Astor street are the guests of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Metz at Fernbrook in Lenox.

Mr. and Mrs. George Higginson Jr. gave a dinner Friday evening and a luncheon on Saturday at Rock Lawn, their Lenox residence.

Mrs. Arthur H. Barnhart and her son, Arthur H. Barnhart of 4455 Drexel boulevard, are recent arrivals at the Aspinwall hotel in Lenox.

The debutante list seems to lengthen daily and Chicago is promised a record crop of society buds for the approaching season. Now comes the announcement of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Lederbach of Highland Park that they will present their daughter, Sarah, to society at a tea at their residence on Friday afternoon, August 12. Mrs. Lederbach was graduated in June from the Ogontz school.

Richard T. Crane, Jr. and his son, Cornelius Crane of 1550 Lake Shore drive, are on a trip in the Canadian Rockies. Mrs. Crane has as her guests her sister, Mrs. H. W. Higginbotham of Joliet. Mr. Higginbotham and his daughter, Miss Florence Higginbotham, at Castle Hill, Ipswich, the Crane summer residence.

WEDDINGS

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Darnall of 225 North Cuyler avenue, Oak Park, announce the marriage of their daughter, Dorothy, to Edred B. Hall Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Edred B. Hall of River Forest, which took place on July 23.

The marriage of Miss Florence Leora Curry, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. James Albert Curry of Streator, Ill., and J. Charles Sullivan of Chicago, took place at 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the Sisson hotel. Miss Irma Curry was her sister's maid of honor, and Miss Rhoda Wickwire of Mantate, Mich., and Miss Lisette Sullivan, sister of the bridegroom, were bridesmaids. Ted Wallach served as best man. Mr. and Mrs. Sullivan are to reside in Chicago after their honeymoon.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Girls to Blame.

"Dear Miss Blake: It seems as though the men of today are a problem; many of my girl friends are having the same trouble. I have been going with a fellow 24, four years my senior. I have known him about a year. Everything was going along nicely until recently. He had promised to call up, but failed to do so. I feel sure you can help me to solve this problem, as we left the best of friends."

I wonder if some of the girls aren't to blame. Sometimes I think they are. Just for the sake of getting out and having what is termed a good time, a girl will stand for many things she should not, such as accepting invitations from a young man who has previously disappointed her, when a proper explanation has not been given. After getting away with this several times, he comes to feel explanations are not required, and makes no attempt to offer them.

Seek Younger One.

"Dear Miss Blake: I met a young girl at a party and I have learned to like her, and my only objection is that she is ten years older than myself. Now, do you think the difference in age would interfere in our future happiness?"

Lorraine Edmister.

I'm afraid I must be cruel, "Little Eighteen," and tell you I do think it would make a difference, and a great deal of difference, too. You must know many nice girls of your own age or perhaps a little younger, and I feel your future happiness would be much safer if trusted to such a one when you find you are ready to think about such things.

MEN'S FASHIONS

BY A. T. GALICCO.

Care of Clothes.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—A reader anxiously writes for advice concerning the care of his clothes. Among other things he wants to know how often a suit and an overcoat should be pressed. Which is a hard question to answer, as it all depends upon the kind of treatment said suit and overcoat are given. If the man in question takes his overcoat and throws it around, instead of putting it on a hanger, and wears his suit on a damp, hot day they are going to need more frequent attention from the tailor's iron than if the coat received scrupulous care and the suit were worn under the most favorable weather conditions.

Ordinarily the average length of time a suit should be worn between pressings varies from two to five days, depending upon how hard and long during the day it is worn. One good way of deciding is by looking at the suit, and judging for yourself whether there is enough crease left in the trousers to last seriously.

As for the frequency of cleaning, another point upon which our reader requested enlightenment, this also depends upon circumstances. If one goes to a luncheon party and spills a little of the entire, not to mention a bit of the salad course, upon the front of one's coat, or if at a picnic one sits by mistake in the custard pie, it stands to reason the suit will need immediate attention from the dry cleaner. Whereas, the same suit might well go two or three weeks with proper care without a trip to the cleaner. Naturally a light suit will soil more quickly than a dark one.

Always keep your coats on coat hangers and the trousers on trouser hangers when they are not in use, and keep your shoes in shoe trees. This will make them hold their shape longer, especially if the shoes are provided with shoe trees immediately after being taken from the feet.

Summer Crepes Order Plaits to the Side

by Corinne Lowe

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—"No parking between these signs"—this is the order given by many of the summer crepes to the plaits which draw up toward them. This in-hospitable spirit protects front and back of a skirt from intrusion. The plaits are often massed on the sides.

Such legislation has been faithfully obeyed in today's Lanvin creation of powder blue crepe. Here we have the fine tucks grouped on the sides in order to leave a plain front and back panel. The device is, as always, successful in its effect of grace and the tucks balance that decorative cape back which relieves the severity of the corsage. A girle mounting in front is achieved of rose embroidery, echoed by a wide brimmed hat of rose chiffon which has not a single trimming touch. The charm of this summer millinery relies wholly on the shirring of the brim and the tiny furling of self-material on the edge. The parasol also is of rose color.

In this frock we find the raised waist line which so often is identified with Lanvin creations. The fact of it is that this normal waist line is much more youthful in result than is the long line and Lanvin, that designer par excellence of youthful modes, has never been insensible to the fact.

Although we find so many of the summer frocks with some accent of plait or drapery at the sides, there seems to be a cross current at work against the system. The early autumn modes just now appearing stress a front treatment which contrasts fitted sides and back with godet fullness in front.

BADGER STATE'S POLITICAL BRAND IS ALL ITS OWN

La Follette and Antis
Lead; Socialists Third.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 27.—[Special.]—Years ago it was said, "Wisconsin is a state of mind." In politics it seems to the outside world to be a confirmed insurgent. For a quarter century and more its politics have been split over one dominant personality and his governmental theories. The Republican party has been divided into La Follette and anti-La Follette camps.

The cleavage has cut so deep into the electorate that at times the Democratic party has been trimmed down almost to a minus quantity. It now has only one member of the legislature out of 133 in the lower house. Politically speaking, the chief alignment in Wisconsin is still La Follette and anti-La Follette, instead of Republican versus Democrat.

Socialists Second Party.
The lineup has been between conservative and liberal, stand pat and radical, reactionary and revolutionary, to use the customary phrases. So far as the state law making body is concerned, the Socialists with a dozen or so members announce in loud tones that they are the second political party in Wisconsin. They are among the groups supporting La Follette in this independent quest for the presidency.

Years ago the La Follette campaigners used to hold up the Socialists as a pet hobgoblin. "Vote for us or you'll get what Milwaukee has got," they argued. The reference was not to the beverage that made Milwaukee famous three days, but to Victor Berger's Socialists.

Now the hobgoblin has become one of the pet cats.
Reasons for Political Mixup.
One of the first questions the outsider asks is, "What makes Wisconsin Milwaukee at once begin to talk of the Germans in '48; of the Carl Schurz type, who came here from the struggle for liberty in the old country; the wave of Scandinavian migration that followed it; the migration of Irish, Scotch, and Welsh, and the great stream of New England revolutionary stock that swept here in the days of early settlement? They say it has proved a wonderful mixture, one in which advanced theories of government have readily thrived. Largest factor of all, they hold, has been the educational system, particularly the state university.

Influence of Its University.
Before the war the university was rated as perhaps the greatest public service institution of its type in the country. In recent years its influence in government appears to have been fading, but in the days when it was at its crest the university was undoubtedly the dynamo of the government of Wisconsin. Its professors studied out new ideas, handed them to La Follette, who in turn took them before the people. There was a period when Wisconsin walked almost ten years in advance of most other states, and other commonwealths used to send committees here to study the new things that were being done in order that they might copy. Direct primaries, for instance, perhaps had their origin here more than in any other state, and Wisconsin was one of the pioneer states in workmen's compensation.

Try to Figure Bob's Strength.
Now that the preliminaries for the campaign are under way, both sides are trying to figure La Follette's possible strength in his home state. The La Follette groups say their candidate will win by a prodigious margin in Wisconsin. They say on this point he will have the German, Scandinavian and Irish vote almost solidly, while the anti-Ku Klux Klan element is expected to land the Polish, Catholics. On economic lines they declare he will have a large majority among the farmers, the workmen, the trade unions, the railroad men and the Socialists.

The "regulars" who are styling themselves constructive Republicans are theorizing that the situation from the Coolidge viewpoint has materially improved in the last week or so.

Debs May Hurt La Follette.
They theorize that the alignment of Debs and Berger behind La Follette will hurt "Fighting Bob" among many who are liberal but not Socialist. They say he will be injured by running under an independent caption, instead of under the regular Republican colors.

He should be well acquainted with buyers of large department stores particularly in the large cities East and South of the Mississippi river and if he knows the buyers of the better type clothing and haberdashery shops, so much the better.

This position will require a man who is willing to travel and who can obtain results. Applications are wanted only from capable hosiery salesmen who are well equipped to fill this position.

Starting salary will be satisfactory and based on past performance. Applications should contain detailed information as to experience, age, former connections, etc.

Address E E 47, Tribune.

GOVERNMENT CLUB TO HONOR PERSHING ON HIS RETIREMENT

New York, July 27.—One of the functions which will mark the retirement to private life of Gen. Pershing this fall will be a banquet in his honor by the Government club, it was announced today.

Mrs. George E. Owens, president of the club, stated that 1,200 reservations had been made for the banquet. Those who have announced their intention of attending include James Pershing, brother of Gen. Pershing; James W. Gerard, Job E. Hedges, Will H. Hays, Rodman Wanamaker, and Adolph Ochs.

For many there are who still stick to the old labels. Among railroad workers, and factory employees, they declare a growing sentiment is discernible to do nothing that might, perhaps, injure employment, and Coolidge and Dawes clubs, they say, are growing at a far more rapid rate than expected.

They say there is cheer in the fact that the Democrats polled 80,000 votes in the primaries, an indication to them that Davis and Bryan may get 150,000 votes in November, most of which would come from La Follette.

WOMEN'S HANDS
GETTING BIGGER,
GLOVE MAN SAYS

LONDON, July 27.—[By the Associated Press.]—Women's hands have been gradually getting larger for a number of years, but the growth has been most marked since the war, in the opinion of the head of a big glove manufacturing firm, and the fact that the Democrats polled 80,000 votes in the primaries, an indication to them that Davis and Bryan may get 150,000 votes in November, most of which would come from La Follette.

"A few years ago," he explains, "there was a fair demand for size 5½ gloves for women and the average was 6½ and 6¾. Today there is practically no demand for the smaller size; the average is 6½ and 6¾, and these are also being cut wider."

FIX ANCHORS FOR WORLD GIRDERS ON NORTH COAST

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
ABOARD U. S. S. MILWAUKEE,
Hawkes Bay, N. P., July 27.—An excellent anchorage for the American round the world flyers was established today at Hawkes bay under direction of Lieut. Russell. The U. S. S. Milwaukee arrived at Port Saunders, New Zealand, at 6:30 last night. Army officials proceeded today to Hawkes bay, seven miles up the inlet, to set the anchors.

Destroyers Await Orders.
Halifax, N. S., July 27.—[By the Associated Press.]—The special American torpedo boat destroyer division, under command of Commander Russell Willson, which is on its way to Labrador to meet the United States army flyers homeward bound from their round the world flight, swung quietly at anchor today awaiting sailing orders from the cruiser Milwaukee, which tonight was at Hawkes bay, New Zealand.

Naval air service officers on the Milwaukee, after establishing an anchorage at Hawkes bay, will proceed to Cartwright bay and thence to Indian Harbor for the same purpose. At each of the prospective landing places which the Milwaukee will prepare the same plans will be followed as at Pictou, where Lieutenant Commander Edward Wynnan and Lieutenant Commander Kelly of the naval air service examined the coast line and then flew over the northern end of the Bay of Fundy and inland to make maps.

The Milwaukee has on board a large party of newspaper and camera men who expect to be landed at the place finally selected as the end of the ocean flight of the aviators, and which may be Indian Harbor.

Argentinian Rescues Lyons.
LYONS, France, July 27.—Maj. Zanni, the Argentine flier who is making an attempt to fly around the world from Amsterdam, left Le Bourget, near Paris, at 10:55 o'clock this morning and arrived here at 1:45 o'clock this afternoon. Weather reports from the Alps region being unfavorable, Maj. Zanni, who had intended to start immediately for Rome, postponed his trip off until 6 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Sorry She Disobeyed
Dad, Girl Takes Poison

Filled with remorse because she had disobeyed her parents by going on a party at which there was liquor, followed by a "joy ride," Miss Bessie Nelson, 18 years old, swallowed a bottle of "toothache drops" yesterday in her home at 1200 North Parkside avenue. Her crying out that she had killed herself summoned the parents, who found her lying on the floor, the empty bottle near. She was taken to the West Suburban hospital, where they say she will live.

ILL. HE CUTS THROAT.
Ill health is believed to have prompted John Harris, 60, 2080 Canabot avenue, a laborer, to cut his throat yesterday. He may die.

U. S. TAX APPEALS BOARD ISSUES PRACTICE RULES

Washington, D. C., July 27.—[Special.]—Complete tentative rules of practice before the new board of tax appeals were issued today by Charles D. Hamel, the chairman. The board now is nearly ready to begin operations and it is expected that the first cases will be taken up before long.

The rules provide that upon receipt of a petition taking an appeal from a finding of the internal revenue commissioner the appeal will be entered on the docket and assigned a number and the taxpayer or his representative notified thereof. Within 30 days from the service on a copy of the petition he shall file an answer which shall admit or deny each and every material allegation of fact contained in the petition and which shall set forth any new matters of fact and any propositions of law upon which he relies.

TRIBUNE TOWER

Explaining the difficult task which faced competitors in The Tribune $100,000 competition, James Ernest King said in the Boston Transcript:

"The difficulty of designing a tower atop the broad base of a skyscraper is very much greater, he remembered, than that of building an attractive tower straightaway from the ground. In the latter case, the proportioning may be freely adjusted as the tower climbs. In an office building, on the other hand, the architect must continue to use the entire area available for solid construction all the way to the limit set by law for the height of the office stories. The possibilities of effective proportioning are limited not by this difficulty alone but also by the fact that all the elements of the tower must be so treated that they will stand in good perspective when seen from the street several hundred feet below.

"But the greatest essential in the design of a skyscraper is that the vertical lines shall be made to 'carry through' to maintain their direction and force despite every handicap of the intervening horizontals, to continue unflinching even across the dangerous gap which must otherwise occur when the main walls end and the superstructure begins."

The New York Times.

New York, July 27.—There has been nothing about recent markets to suggest that they were going through the usual dull period of midsummer. In practically all important divisions the trend was buoyantly upward last week, and the advances of such unmistakable fashion as to suggest that constructive factors are actively at work.

It is becoming trite to say that "new high records" for the year were established. Yet that is exactly what has happened in such important markets as stocks, in wheat, oats, corn and hogs, and in the foreign exchanges. In other commodities, among them cotton and copper, while the prices reached were not the highest of the year, yet they approached that point very closely.

It is rather a peculiar situation that although these markets should be influenced in measure by the general industrial, financial and political situation yet each had its own particular motivating factor which considered with the background, tended to brighten and tinge with cheerful color the complete picture.

Optimism in Exchanges.

In the exchanges, optimism was derived from the possibility that obstacles in the path of the inter-allied conference would be smoothed out, and that success would crown the efforts of the negotiators; in the stock market it was the continuance of easy money and faning of the speculative flames by recurring reports of "railroad mergers."

Each factor has been of particular influence to the market in controlled, and oddly enough, all of them were ranged on the constructive side. It is in making for a generally higher price level, under conditions in which speculative activities are at fever heat in some of the markets—notably in the grains and on the stock exchange.

Still Fight Loans.

In fact, on the very day emphatic bank objection was made to the loan in its present form, sterling forged ahead to its best price of the year. Similarly, a closer home, the announcement of the passing of its common stock dividend by the largest of the independent steel corporations, because of poor earnings in the second quarter of the year, did not appear to dampen the ardor of the stock market opinion. The stock exchange appeared to take this as a matter of course, and securities continued their advance.

Possibly the action of the major markets in the face of current adverse news developments, and with the general knowledge in mind that industrial output is at low ebb, may be construed as the outward manifestation of a change in sentiment toward autumn activities. It is quite plausible that such an appreciation of the grain crops have experienced during the last month should increase optimism in the agricultural districts and aid business generally. It does not entirely follow, however, that industrial activities will develop a normal rate. Our trade barometers do not all prophesy an immediate lifting of the little clouds by which the present is little clouded by evidence in the present ratio of operations in basic industries that buyers have shaken off the best mood, which has gripped them since last spring.

This, of course, may develop later. About the best that can be said at the moment is that business is a little better than it was a month ago.

Is Not Inspiring.

A survey of our barometers of trade does not present a glowing picture. It is brightened here and there by the color of increased activity, but considered as a whole, is rather drab. Iron and steel operations are between 40 and 45 per cent of capacity; railroad freight loadings run consistently behind last year by about 10 per cent, with corresponding decreases in earnings. Some slight stirrings are evident in the textile trades, but present operations and the business now in sight do not warrant a great deal of optimism; sales of automobiles are considerably below last year, as are actual transactions in almost every line of mail order houses. Unemployment now is greater than at any time this year.

There is the possibility that the constructive factors which have already developed, and thus expected to develop, will combine to correct the present most important obstacle in the path of business recovery—the hesitant attitude of buyers.

The usual seasonal increases in inquiry for goods and services which the automobile will develop, the rise in security prices, and unusually large returns to the farmer for his products, a continuance of ample money supply at pre-war rates, a clearing of the political air at home and abroad—all of these may combine to bring about normal industrial activities.

Our markets are "buyer's markets." His needs, his attitude and his temper count. So long as the buyer believes that he may purchase at a lower price later in the year, or that he may experience difficulty in disposing of goods purchased at this time, just so long will commercial hesitation predominate and industrial activities remain at low ebb.

On the other hand, our markets prophesy that conditions will improve, that daily that conditions will improve, that buying will increase and that normal conditions will prevail in the autumn. It is difficult to disbelieve or take for accuracy and vision are so remarkably perfect.

SCRUTATOR SAYS FOREIGN TRADE IS OVERRATED

BY SCRUTATOR.

In tons, all the international commerce of the world moving by sea last year was only a little more than a fifth of the tonnage moved on American steam railroads, to say nothing of our enormous lake freight movement, our big coastwise water traffic and shipments by truck.

But international trade continues to get attention out of all proportion to its importance to us. There are many reasons for this. Economic writers, the others, have traditions and habits. Statistics of international trade were developed much earlier and in more complete form than statistics of domestic business anywhere, because of the connection of international trade with the revenue systems of governments.

Then we have another instance of the force of British tradition. Naturally foreign trade is of capital importance to every business man and financier in Britain. They have to talk about it and write about it and the influence of their financiers and economists has always affected ours most powerfully.

Our own history was entwined with overseas commerce in the period in which our business ideas were becoming set. Even today the life of the grain and cotton regions is affected by the slightest ripple in international commerce.

It would be unwise indeed to urge that international business be neglected in our estimates of the present and plans for the future, but it is worth while occasionally in thinking of the future of the United States to call attention to its real relative importance.

Our internal business is growing and going strong. The international trade of the world is hardly larger than it was twelve years ago in terms of pounds, yards and bushels.

It can shrink even further without disaster to Americans. Decided declines might mean temporary inconveniences, but that is all. An Englishman is ever here warning us that we must grow cheaper cotton or lose our place in the world's staple markets. That would be bad if it happened all at once, but it isn't going to happen that way.

If eventually the United States ceases to export cotton, God will still reign and the government at Washington will still live. There are many men, some of them in the cotton states, who believe that the United States of America might be better off today if never a pound of lint had been produced in the Western Hemisphere. That is extreme, probably. Nothing is so profitless as to speculate on might have been, but there are powerful arguments back of that thesis.

The question as to who are the real friends of Europe, those who would reestablish pre-war "normalcy" there, or those who welcome the transformation now taking place in which Europe is becoming more self-sufficient, more agricultural and less industrial, is probably incapable of any definite answer at this stage in history. Europe would certainly prefer a short cut back to its pre-war prosperity rather than a continuation of the present pains of metamorphosis. But the war certainly proved that Europe's pre-war "normalcy" was not only unstable but explosive.

Was it really "normalcy" or "abnormalcy"? Wasn't Europe's industrial development too heavy in relation to its agriculture?

The tremendous population increase resulted in urbanization that may have been excessive. The quality of the European population was not notably improved by the shifts and substitutions that resulted from the industrial development in the opinion of most students of demography.

The same observations may apply to us to some extent in the period since our free land was exhausted, but it is hardly probable that we will ever go as far as Europe in the direction of an abnormal industrial development relative to agriculture. If we do, we will pay the penalty.

Slayers' Crime Life Revealed—Lodge Gravely Ill—City's Beaches Are Crowded

LOEB'S "CASTLE," WHERE MOTHER OF DICK REMAINS IN SECLUSION WHILE SON TRIES TO BEAT NOOSE. This is where Richard Loeb might even now be living had he and Nathan Leopold Jr. not kidnaped and slain Bobby Franks. Quite a contrast between this palace and the county jail? The Loeb's built this residence on a high bluff five miles south of Charlevoix, Michigan resort town. It is of rough stone and has the appearance of a castle in some foreign clime. Mrs. Loeb, who is ill, has remained in the home since the beginning of the sensational trial of her son and Leopold. Dick's brother, Allen, has gone to Charlevoix to be with her. (Story on page one.) (Pacific and Atlantic Photo.)

ON STAND TODAY. John Levinson II, who was to be next victim of Franks slayers, will testify. (Story on page one.)

ALIENISTS BARE SLAYERS' CAREERS OF CRIME. Dr. H. S. Hulbert of Oak Park and Dr. Carl Bowman of Boston, who find Loeb was master criminal, Leopold his mental slave. (Story on page one.)

SERIOUSLY ILL. Senator Henry Cabot Lodge is operated upon at Cambridge, Mass. (Story on page one.)

WOMAN POLLS BIG VOTE IN TEXAS PRIMARY. James E. Ferguson, former governor of Texas, was kept off ballot. His wife, however, threatens to be rival to klan candidate in "runoff" for Democratic nomination. (Story on page five.)

BY JAMES O'DONNELL
Clarkburg, W. Va., July 28.—Mr. Editor: Pursuant to instruction, I have spent a this teeming mountain town politics is and long has been erod not the least nutritious pe daily provender and where too of the citizens are running offices—Davis, a Democrat, G dent of the United States; G publican, for United States and Gore, another Republic governor of West Virginia. Here John W. Davis was b one years ago; here he was up by a mother who was a lectual prodigy—could can fr age a large and lively house read her New Testament in inal Greek and her Dante in and by a father who was ar ing but humanized covenan

Debut in Political Aren
Here he gained his first po perience, and here—much to gust of his father, who wante for a justice of the United States court—he won his first trial political victories. My assignment, as I under was to get the lay of the land of the man; to get the intio of him from person with the Americans still denominated him. All that I have done. It has been very interesting. They Always Liked Him I found John William D verally liked in these part however, is no phenomeno when a community has no liked one of its citizens. It re velope a deep and unanimou love for him when the elad, seas comes to it that he, derital candidate of a major going to pull several hundred dollars into the town betv blessed July and frosty Nov The thought engenders ac One had to tarry a long Martin to hear anybody say ven Harding was lazy and and longer in Dayton before out that James M.
